Sec. 790. G.S. 106-465 reads as rewritten:

"§ 106-465. Organization and membership of tobacco boards of trade; rules and regulations; fire insurance and extended coverage required; price fixing prohibited.

Tobacco warehousemen and the purchasers of leaf tobacco, at auction, on warehouse floors, are hereby authorized to organize, either as nonstock corporations, or voluntary associations, tobacco boards of trade in the several towns and cities in North Carolina in which leaf tobacco is sold on warehouse floors, at auction.

Such tobacco boards of trade as may now exist, or which may hereafter be organized, are authorized to make reasonable rules and regulations for the economical and efficient handling of the sale of leaf tobacco at auction on the warehouse floors in the several towns and cities in North Carolina in which an auction market is situated.

Each tobacco board of trade organized pursuant to this section shall, on or before June 1, 1973, by regulation, require that all auction warehouse firms which are members of, or may hereafter request membership in, such board of trade for the purpose of displaying for sale and selling leaf tobacco, deposit with the board of trade prior to the market opening, a copy of a policy of fire insurance and extended coverage in a company licensed to do business in North Carolina to fully insure, as determined by the board of trade, the market value of the maximum volume of tobacco that will be weighed and left displayed for sale on said warehouse floor at any time during the marketing season. Warehouses using mechanized conveyor-line auction sales where tobacco is not displayed for sale on sales floor would be excluded from the requirement of this regulation.

In determining the market value and maximum volume of tobacco that will be weighed and placed on said warehouse floor at any one time, the board of trade shall use as criteria the prior season's official gross average price for that belt, as recorded by the North Carolina Department of Agriculture and the maximum limit of daily sales, as recommended by the currently functioning flue-cured and burley tobacco marketing organizations, applied to each warehouse based on the firm's pro rata share of the market's maximum limit daily sales opportunity, multiplied times the number of days of sales that said warehouse plans to place on sales floor at any one time, including any and all tobacco weighed and deposited with the warehouse as bailee for future sale. The data relating to the official average price and the maximum limits of daily sales shall be assembled and supplied by the North Carolina Commissioner of Agriculture or his representative to the board of trade in each tobacco market in North Carolina, at least 30 days prior to the opening of markets in each belt.

It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to operate an auction sale in said market until said policy is so deposited with and approved by the board of trade. The board of trade shall enjoin the sale of tobacco by any warehouse firm that fails to so deposit a policy of fire insurance and extended coverage with the board.

The tobacco boards of trade in the several towns and cities in North Carolina are authorized to require as a condition to membership therein the applicants to pay a reasonable membership fee and the following schedule of maximum fees shall be deemed reasonable, to wit:

A membership fee of fifty dollars ($50.00) in those towns in which less than 3,000,000 pounds of tobacco was sold at auction between the dates of August 20, 1931, and May 1, 1932; a fee of one hundred dollars ($100.00) in those towns in which during said period of time more than 3,000,000 and less than 10,000,000 pounds of tobacco was sold; a fee of one hundred fifty dollars ($150.00) in those towns in which during said period of time more than 10,000,000 and less than 25,000,000 pounds of tobacco was sold; a fee of three hundred dollars ($300.00) in those towns in which during said period of time more than 25,000,000 pounds of tobacco was sold.

Membership, in good standing, in a local board of trade shall be deemed a reasonable requirement by such board of trade as a condition to participating in the business of operating a tobacco warehouse or the purchase of tobacco at auction therein.

Membership in the several boards of trade may be divided into two categories:

(1) Warehousemen;

(2) Purchasers of leaf tobacco other than warehousemen.

Purchasers of leaf tobacco may be: (i) participating or (ii) nonparticipating. The holder of a membership as a purchaser of leaf tobacco shall have the option of becoming, upon written notice to the board of trade, either a participating or a nonparticipating member. Individuals, partnerships, and/or corporations who are members of tobacco boards of trade, established under this section or coming within the provisions of this section, as nonparticipating members shall not participate in or have any voice or vote in the management, conduct, activities, allotment of sales time, and/or hours, the fixing of dates for the opening or closing of tobacco auction markets, or in any other manner or respect. Individuals, partnerships, and/or corporations who are such nonparticipating members in any of the several tobacco boards of trade shall not be responsible or liable for any of the acts, omissions or commissions of the several tobacco boards of trade.

It shall be unlawful and punishable as of a Class 1 misdemeanor for any bidder or purchaser of tobacco upon warehouse floors to refuse to take and pay for any basket or baskets so bid off from the seller when the seller has or has not accepted the price offered by the purchaser or bidder of other baskets. Any person suspended or expelled from a tobacco board of trade under the provisions of this section may appeal from such suspension to the superior court of the county in which said board of trade is located.

Nothing in this section shall authorize the organization of any association having for its purpose the control of prices or the making of rules and regulations in restraint of trade."

Sec. 1007. G.S. 143-129 reads as rewritten:

(a) No construction or repair work requiring the estimated expenditure of public money in an amount equal to or more than fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) or purchase of apparatus, supplies, materials, or equipment requiring an estimated expenditure of public money in an amount equal to or more than twenty thousand dollars ($20,000), except in cases of group purchases made by hospitals through a competitive bidding purchasing program or in cases of special emergency involving the health and safety of the people or their property, shall be performed, nor shall any contract be awarded therefor, by any board or governing body of the State, or of any institution of the State government, or of any county, city, town, or other subdivision of the State, unless the provisions of this section are complied with. For purposes of this Article, a competitive bidding group purchasing program is a formally organized program that offers purchasing services at discount prices to two or more hospital facilities. The limitation contained in this paragraph shall not apply to construction or repair work undertaken during the progress of a construction or repair project initially begun pursuant to this section. Further, the provisions of this section shall not apply to the purchase of gasoline, diesel fuel, alcohol fuel, motor oil or fuel oil. Such purchases shall be subject to G.S. 143-131.

(b) Advertisement of the letting of such contracts shall be as follows:

Where the contract is to be let by a board or governing body of the State government, or of a State institution, as distinguished from a board or governing body of a subdivision of the State, proposals shall be invited by advertisement at least one week before the time specified for the opening of said proposals in a newspaper having general circulation in the State of North Carolina. Provided that the advertisements for bidders required by this section shall be published at such a time that at least seven full days shall lapse between the date of publication of notice and the date of the opening of bids.

Where the contract is to be let by a county, city, town or other subdivision of the State, proposals shall be invited by advertisement at least one week before the time specified for the opening of said proposals in a newspaper having general circulation in such county, city, town or other subdivision.

Such advertisement shall state the time and place where plans and specifications of proposed work or a complete description of the apparatus, supplies, materials or equipment may be had, and the time and place for opening of the proposals, and shall reserve to said board or governing body the right to reject any or all such proposals.

Proposals shall not be rejected for the purpose of evading the provisions of this Article. No board or governing body of the State or subdivision thereof shall assume responsibility for construction or purchase contracts, or guarantee the payments of labor or materials therefor except under provisions of this Article.

All proposals shall be opened in public and shall be recorded on the minutes of the board or governing body and the award shall be made to the lowest responsible bidder or bidders, taking into consideration quality, performance and the time specified in the proposals for the performance of the contract. In the event the lowest responsible bids are in excess of the funds available for the project, the responsible board or governing body is authorized to enter into negotiations with the lowest responsible bidder above mentioned, making reasonable changes in the plans and specifications as may be necessary to bring the contract price within the funds available, and may award a contract to such bidder upon recommendation of the Department of Administration in the case of the State government or of a State institution or agency, or upon recommendation of the responsible commission, council or board in the case of a subdivision of the State, if such bidder will agree to perform the work at the negotiated price within the funds available therefor. If a contract cannot be let under the above conditions, the board or governing body is authorized to readvertise, as herein provided, after having made such changes in plans and specifications as may be necessary to bring the cost of the project within the funds available therefor. The procedure above specified may be repeated if necessary in order to secure an acceptable contract within the funds available therefor.

No proposal shall be considered or accepted by said board or governing body unless at the time of its filing the same shall be accompanied by a deposit with said board or governing body of cash, or a cashier's check, or a certified check on some bank or trust company insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation in an amount equal to not less than five percent (5%) of the proposal. In lieu of making the cash deposit as above provided, such bidder may file a bid bond executed by a corporate surety licensed under the laws of North Carolina to execute such bonds, conditioned that the surety will upon demand forthwith make payment to the obligee upon said bond if the bidder fails to execute the contract in accordance with the bid bond. This deposit shall be retained if the successful bidder fails to execute the contract within 10 days after the award or fails to give satisfactory surety as required herein. In the case of proposals in an estimated amount of less than one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) for the purchase of apparatus, supplies, materials, or equipment, the board or governing body may waive the requirement for a bid bond or other deposit.

Bids shall be sealed if the invitation to bid so specifies and, in any event, the opening of a bid or the disclosure or exhibition of the contents of any bid by anyone without the permission of the bidder prior to the time set for opening in the invitation to bid shall constitute a ~~general~~ Class 1 misdemeanor.

(c) All contracts to which this section applies shall be executed in writing, and the board or governing body shall require the person to whom the award of contract is made to furnish bond as required by Article 3 of Chapter 44A; or require a deposit of money, certified check or government securities for the full amount of said contract to secure the faithful performance of the terms of said contract and the payment of all sums due for labor and materials in a manner consistent with Article 3 of Chapter 44A; and no such contract shall be altered except by written agreement of the contractor, the sureties on his bond, and the board or governing body. Such surety bond or deposit required herein shall be deposited with the board or governing body for which the work is to be performed. When a deposit, other than a surety bond, is made with the board or governing body, said board or governing body assumes all the liabilities, obligations and duties of a surety as provided in Article 3 of Chapter 44A to the extent of said deposit. In the case of contracts for the purchase of apparatus, supplies, materials, or equipment, the board or governing body may waive the requirement for a surety bond or other deposit.

The owning agency or the Department of Administration, in contracts involving a State agency, and the owning agency or the governing board, in contracts involving a political subdivision of the State, may reject the bonds of any surety company against which there is pending any unsettled claim or complaint made by a State agency or the owning agency or governing board of any political subdivision of the State arising out of any contract under which State funds, in contracts with the State, or funds of political subdivisions of the State, in contracts with such political subdivision, were expended, provided such claim or complaint has been pending more than 180 days.

(d) Nothing in this section shall operate so as to require any public agency to enter into a contract which will prevent the use of unemployment relief labor paid for in whole or in part by appropriations or funds furnished by the State or federal government.

(e) Any board or governing body of the State or any institution of the State government or of any county, city, town, or other subdivision of the State may enter into any contract with (i) the United States of America or any agency thereof, or (ii) any other government unit or agency thereof within the United States, for the purchase, lease, or other acquisition of any apparatus, supplies, materials, or equipment without regard to the foregoing provisions of this section or to the provisions of any other section of this Article.

The Secretary of Administration or the governing board of any county, city, town, or other subdivision of the State may designate any officer or employee of the State, county, city, town or subdivision to enter a bid or bids in its behalf at any sale of apparatus, supplies, materials, equipment or other property owned by (i) the United States of America or any agency thereof, or (ii) any other governmental unit or agency thereof within the United States, and may authorize such officer or employee to make any partial or down payment or payment in full that may be required by regulations of the government or agency disposing of such property.

(f) The provisions of this Article shall not apply to purchases of apparatus, supplies, materials, or equipment by hospitals when performance or price competition for a product are not available; when a needed product is available from only one source of supply; when standardization or compatibility is the overriding consideration; when a particular medical item or prosthetic appliance is needed;

when a particular product is ordered by an attending physician for his patients; when additional products are needed to complete an ongoing job or task; when products are purchased for 'over-the-counter' resale; when a particular product is needed or desired for experimental, developmental, or research work; or when equipment is already installed, connected, and in service under a lease or other agreement and the governing body of the hospital determines that the equipment should be purchased. The governing body of a hospital shall keep a record of all purchases made pursuant to this exception. These records are subject to public inspection."

-----WITHDRAWAL OF BID; PUBLIC AGENCIES

Sec. 1008. G.S. 143-129.1 reads as rewritten:

"§ 143-129.1. Withdrawal of bid.

A public agency may allow a bidder submitting a bid pursuant to North Carolina G.S. 143-129 for construction or repair work to withdraw his bid from consideration after the bid opening without forfeiture of his bid security if the price bid was based upon a mistake, which constituted a substantial error, provided the bid was submitted in good faith, and the bidder submits credible evidence that the mistake was clerical in nature as opposed to a judgment error, and was actually due to an unintentional and substantial arithmetic error or an unintentional omission of a substantial quantity of work, labor, material or services made directly in the compilation of the bid, which unintentional arithmetic error or unintentional omission can be clearly shown by objective evidence drawn from inspection of the original work papers, documents or materials used in the preparation of the bid sought to be withdrawn. A request to withdraw a bid must be made in writing to the public agency which invited the proposals for the work prior to the award of the contract, but not later than 72 hours after the opening of bids.

If a request to withdraw a bid has been made in accordance with the provisions of this section, action on the remaining bids shall be considered, in accordance with North Carolina G.S. 143-129, as though said bid had not been received. Notwithstanding the foregoing, such bid shall be deemed to have been received for the purpose of complying with the requirements of G.S. 143-132. Provided, however, in the event the work is relet for bids, under no circumstances shall the bidder who has filed a request to withdraw be permitted to rebid the work.

If a bidder files a request to withdraw his bid, the agency shall promptly hold a hearing thereon. The agency shall give to the withdrawing bidder reasonable notice of the time and place of any such hearing. The bidder, either in person or through counsel, may appear at the hearing and present any additional facts and arguments in support of his request to withdraw his bid. The agency shall issue a written ruling allowing or denying the request to withdraw within five days after the hearing. If the agency finds that the price bid was based upon a mistake of the type described in the first paragraph of this section, then the agency shall issue a ruling permitting the bidder to withdraw without forfeiture of the bidder's security. If the agency finds that the price bid was based upon a mistake not of the type described in the first paragraph of this section, then the agency shall issue a ruling denying the request to withdraw and requiring the forfeiture of the bidder's security. A denial by the agency of the request to withdraw a bid shall have the same effect as if an award had been made to the bidder and a refusal by the bidder to accept had been made, or as if there had been a refusal to enter into the contract, and the bidder's bid deposit or bid bond shall be forfeited.

In the event said ruling denies the request to withdraw the bid, the bidder shall have the right, within 20 days after receipt of said ruling, to contest the matter by the filing of a civil action in any court of competent jurisdiction of the State of North Carolina. The procedure shall be the same as in all civil actions except all issues of law and fact and every other issue shall be tried de novo by the judge without jury; provided that the matter may be referred in the instances and in the manner provided for by North Carolina G.S. 1A-1, Rule 53, as amended. Notwithstanding the foregoing, if the public agency involved is the Department of Administration, it may follow its normal rules and regulations with respect to contested matters, as opposed to following the administrative procedures set forth herein. If it is finally determined that the bidder did not have the right to withdraw his bid pursuant to the provisions of this section, the bidder's security shall be forfeited. Every bid bond or bid deposit given by a bidder to a public agency pursuant to G.S. 143-129 shall be conclusively presumed to have been given in accordance with this section, whether or not it be so drawn as to conform to this section. This section shall be conclusively presumed to have been written into every bid bond given pursuant to G.S. 143-129.

Neither the agency nor any elected or appointed official, employee, representative or agent of such agency shall incur any liability or surcharge, in the absence of fraud or collusion, by permitting the withdrawal of a bid pursuant to the provisions of this section.

No withdrawal of the bid which would result in the award of the contract on another bid of the same bidder, his partner, or to a corporation or business venture owned by or in which he has an interest shall be permitted. No bidder who is permitted to withdraw a bid shall supply any material or labor to, or perform any subcontract or work agreement for, any person to whom a contract or subcontract is awarded in the performance of the contract for which the withdrawn bid was submitted, without the prior written approval of the agency. Whoever violates the provisions of the foregoing sentence shall be guilty of a Class 1 misdemeanor."

S.B. 14 CHAPTER 542

AN ACT TO AUTHORIZE THE ISSUANCE OF GENERAL OBLIGATION BONDS OF THE STATE, SUBJECT TO A VOTE OF THE QUALIFIED VOTERS OF THE STATE, TO PROVIDE FUNDS FOR (1) CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS FOR THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA, (2) GRANTS TO COMMUNITY COLLEGES FOR CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS, (3) GRANTS, LOANS, AND REVOLVING LOANS TO LOCAL GOVERNMENT UNITS FOR WATER SUPPLY SYSTEMS, WASTEWATER COLLECTION SYSTEMS, WASTEWATER TREATMENT WORKS, AND WATER CONSERVATION

PROJECTS, AND (4) CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS AND LAND ACQUISITION FOR NEW AND EXISTING STATE PARKS AND RECREATION AREAS.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

Section 1. Short title. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "Education, Clean Water, and Parks Bond Act of 1993".

Sec. 2. Purpose. It is the intent of the General Assembly by this act to provide for the issuance of general obligation bonds of the State, and to provide that the proceeds realized from the sale of the bonds shall be allocated as follows:

(1) Three hundred ten million dollars ($310,000,000) to provide capital improvements for the constituent and affiliated institutions of The University of North Carolina or for the Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina.

(2) Two hundred fifty million dollars ($250,000,000) to provide grants to individual community colleges to finance the costs of community college capital improvements for community colleges in this State.

(3) Forty-five million dollars ($45,000,000) to provide State matching funds required to receive federal wastewater or water supply assistance funds and to provide additional funding for the Clean Water Revolving Loan and Grant Fund established in Chapter 159G of the General Statutes or to provide funding by grants and loans to local government units, and one hundred million dollars ($100,000,000) to provide loans to local government units to finance all or a portion of the cost of construction, improvements, enlargements, extensions, and reconstruction of water supply systems, wastewater collection systems, wastewater treatment works, and water conservation projects.

The funds to be derived from the sale of the Clean Water bonds authorized by this act are sufficient to meet no more than a fraction of the needs which now exist and will arise in the immediate future. For this reason, although public necessity and the criteria established by Chapter 159G of the General Statutes shall be the primary consideration in granting and loaning funds, great emphasis shall also be placed on the creation of efficient systems of regional wastewater disposal and regional water supply, and on the willingness and ability of local government units to meet their responsibilities through sound fiscal policies, creative planning, and efficient operation and management.

(4) Thirty-five million dollars ($35,000,000) to provide capital improvements in the form of repairs, renovations, new construction, and land acquisition for existing State parks and recreation areas.

(c) Clean Water Bonds. The proceeds of Clean Water Bonds and notes shall be used for the purpose of making loans and grants to local governments as follows:

(1) The proceeds of forty-five million dollars ($45,000,000) of Clean Water Bonds shall be used and allocated for the same purposes for which funds in the Clean Water Revolving Loan and Grant Fund may be used including, without limitation, to provide funds to be used to make revolving loans and grants to local government units. The revolving loans and grants shall be made for the purpose of paying the cost of water supply systems, wastewater collection systems, and wastewater treatment works.

The first priority for use of these proceeds shall be to provide State funds necessary for the 1993-95 fiscal biennium to match the federal wastewater or water supply assistance funds, deposited in the Clean Water Pollution Control Revolving Fund or another fund, that are available from year to year, unless the General Assembly has provided other funds for this purpose, in which event this priority shall cease to exist to the extent of the availability of those other funds. For the purpose of implementing this priority, the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources shall certify to the State Treasurer the amount of funds required for the State match for each of the fiscal years ending June 30, 1994, and June 30, 1995, and the extent to which the General Assembly has provided other funds for this purpose. Upon certification to the State Treasurer of the amount of funds required for the State match for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1994, the State may issue up to twenty-two million five hundred thousand dollars ($22,500,000) of Clean Water Bonds authorized by this subdivision for the purpose of funding the State match for that fiscal year and for any other purposes authorized by this subdivision. Upon certification to the State Treasurer of the amount of funds required for the State match for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1995, the State may issue the remaining balance of Clean Water Bonds authorized by this subdivision for the purpose of funding the State match for that fiscal year and for any other purposes authorized by this subdivision. The proceeds of the bonds necessary for the State match for each fiscal year shall be deposited in the Clean Water Pollution Control Revolving Fund or any other fund or account determined by the State Treasurer.

The proceeds may be (i) transferred directly to the Clean Water Revolving Loan and Grant Fund to make revolving loans or grants, (ii) used to make revolving loans or grants directly to the appropriate local government qualifying for a revolving loan or grant from the Clean Water Revolving Loan and Grant Fund, (iii) used for any combination of (i) and (ii), or (iv) used in such other manner as shall effectuate the purposes of this act. Although public necessity and the criteria established by Chapter 159G of the General Statutes shall be the primary consideration in granting and loaning funds, great emphasis shall be placed on the creation of efficient systems of regional wastewater disposal and regional water supply, and on the willingness and ability of local government units to meet their responsibilities through sound fiscal policies, creative planning, and efficient operation and management. Loans and grants made from bond proceeds transferred from the Clean Water Bonds Fund to the Clean Water Revolving Loan and Grant Fund shall be made and administered in accordance with the provisions of the Clean Water Revolving Loan and Grant Act. Loans and grants made from bond proceeds directly to local government units and any loan repayments shall, to the extent applicable, be made, administered, and applied in accordance with the provisions of the Clean Water Revolving Loan and Grant Act. Repayments of any direct loans may be initially placed into any fund or account as may be determined by the State Treasurer for the purpose of determining compliance with the applicable requirements of the federal tax law and shall be expended and disbursed therefrom under the direction and supervision of the Director of the Budget.

(2) The proceeds of one hundred million dollars ($100,000,000) of Clean Water Bonds shall be used for the purpose of making loans to local government units to pay the cost of water supply systems, water conservation projects, wastewater collection systems, and wastewater treatment works. Sixty-nine percent (69%) of the proceeds of the bonds and notes shall be allocated for loans to local government units for wastewater collection systems and wastewater treatment works. Thirty-one percent (31%) of the proceeds of the bonds and notes shall be allocated for loans to local government units for water supply systems and water conservation projects.

The proceeds shall be used to make loans directly to local government units qualifying for a loan from the Clean Water Revolving Loan and Grant Fund or loaned in such other manner as shall effectuate the purposes of this act. To qualify for a loan from the Clean Water Bonds Fund for the purpose of paying the cost of water supply systems, a local government unit must have a water supply facility plan approved by the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources. A water supply facility plan submitted by a local government unit to the Department under G.S. 143-355(l) will be sufficient to meet this requirement. To qualify for a loan from the Clean Water Bonds Fund for the purpose of paying the cost of wastewater collection systems or wastewater treatment works, a local government unit must have a wastewater facility plan approved by the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources. A wastewater facility plan must project future wastewater treatment needs, must present a long-range plan to meet those needs, and must include plans for system operations and maintenance of the facilities being built with the bond proceeds.

The Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources shall set the priorities and determine the eligibility of local government units for these loans in accordance with Section 10 of this act. The form of the loans and the details thereof including, without limitation, the maturity, interest rate, and amortization schedule, shall be determined, from time to time, by the State Treasurer. In making these determinations, the State Treasurer shall consider the purpose of the loans, the ability of local government units to repay the loans, and the security for the loans. The interest rates on these loans shall reflect the self-supporting nature of the loan program and shall be sufficient to cover substantially all payments of debt service on the one hundred million dollars ($100,000,000) of Clean Water Bonds and the issuance costs and administrative expenses associated with the issuance of these bonds and the making of these loans, subject to any applicable requirements of the federal tax law.

Repayments of the loans shall be credited to the General Fund and may be used to pay, directly or indirectly, debt service on the bonds and notes issued. Repayments may be initially placed into such fund or account as may be determined by the State Treasurer for the purpose of determining compliance with applicable requirements of the federal tax law and shall be expended and disbursed therefrom under the direction and supervision of the Director of the Budget.

Any additional moneys which may be received by means of a grant or grants from the United States of America or any agency or department thereof or from any other source for deposit to the Clean Water Bonds Fund may be placed in the Clean Water Bonds Fund or in a separate account or fund and shall be disbursed, to the extent permitted by the terms of the grant or grants, without regard to any limitations imposed by this act.

The proceeds of bonds and notes may be used with any other moneys made available by the General Assembly for making grants and loans authorized by this act, including the proceeds of any other State bond issues, whether heretofore made available or which may be made available at the session of the General Assembly at which this act is ratified or any subsequent sessions. The proceeds of bonds and notes shall be expended and disbursed under the direction and supervision of the Director of the Budget. The funds provided by this act shall be disbursed for the purposes provided in this act upon warrants drawn on the State Treasurer by the State Controller, which warrants shall not be drawn until requisition has been approved by the Director of the Budget and which requisition shall be approved only after full compliance with the Executive Budget Act, Article 1 of Chapter 143 of the General Statutes.

(d) State Parks Bonds. The proceeds of State Parks Bonds and notes shall be used for the purpose of paying the cost of capital improvements for new and existing State parks and recreation areas including, without limitation, land acquisition and the repair, renovation, and construction of visitors' centers, parking lots and access roads, dams, picnic areas, ranger residences, tent and trailer campsites, boat and canoe launching areas, rental cabins, boathouses, swimming facilities, trails, exhibits, storage buildings, water and wastewater systems, electrical systems, and underground fuel tanks. No more than thirty percent (30%) of the proceeds of the State Parks Bonds and notes for land acquisition may be used, however, for land acquisition.

Any additional moneys which may be received by means of a grant or grants from the United States of America or any agency or department thereof or from any other source for deposit to the State Parks Bonds Fund may be placed in the State Parks Bonds Fund or in a separate account or fund and shall be disbursed, to the extent permitted by the terms of the grant or grants, without regard to any limitations imposed by this act.

The proceeds of bonds and notes may be used with any other moneys made available by the General Assembly for the cost of State parks and recreation facilities including the proceeds of any other State bond issues, whether heretofore made available or which may be made available at the session of the General Assembly at which this act is ratified or any subsequent sessions. The proceeds of bonds and notes shall be expended and disbursed under the direction and supervision of the Director of the Budget. The funds provided by this act shall be disbursed for the purposes provided in this act upon warrants drawn on the State Treasurer by the State Controller, which warrants shall not be drawn until requisition has been approved by the Director of the Budget and which requisition shall be approved only after full compliance with the Executive Budget Act, Article 1 of Chapter 143 of the General Statutes.

Sec. 6. Allocation of proceeds. (a) University Improvement Bonds. The proceeds of University Improvement Bonds and notes, including premium thereon, if any, except the proceeds of bonds the issuance of which has been anticipated by bond anticipation notes or the proceeds of refunding bonds or notes, shall be placed by the State Treasurer in a special fund to be designated "University Improvement Bonds Fund". Moneys in the University Improvement Bonds Fund shall be used for the purposes set forth in this act. The Director of the Budget is empowered, when the Director of the Budget determines it is in the best interest of the State and The University of North Carolina to do so, and if the cost of a particular project is less than the projected allocation, to use the excess funds to increase the size of that project or increase the size of any other project itemized in this section, or to increase the amount allocated to a particular institution or the Board of Governors within the aggregate amount of funds available under this section. The Director of the Budget may consult with the Advisory Budget Commission and the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations before making these changes. In addition, the particular capital improvements and the amount of the projected allocation therefor set forth above may be changed from time to time as the General Assembly may decide. The provisions of G.S. 116-11(9) with respect to appropriations to the Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina shall not apply to proceeds of University Improvements Bonds and notes issued pursuant to the provisions of this act.

Allocations to the costs of a capital improvement or undertaking in each case may include allocations to pay the costs set forth in Section 3(4)c., d., e., f., and g. of this act in connection with the issuance of bonds for that capital improvement or undertaking.

Projected allocations set forth above may be adjusted to reflect the availability of other funds. The Board of Trustees of an individual community college may change the projects or allocations for that college, but not for a satellite campus, within the total amount of funds allocated for that college; the Board of Trustees may not, however, change, reduce, or eliminate a project or an allocation at a satellite campus of the community college.

The Director of the Budget is empowered, when the Director of the Budget determines it is in the best interest of the State and the North Carolina Community College System to do so, and if the cost of a particular project is less than the projected allocation, to use the excess funds to increase the size of that project or increase the size of any other project itemized in this section, or to increase the amount allocated to a particular community college within the aggregate amount of funds available under this section. The Director of the Budget may consult with the Advisory Budget Commission and the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations before making these changes. In addition, the particular capital improvements and the amount of the projected allocation therefor set forth above may be changed from time to time as the General Assembly may decide.

II. The proceeds of grants made from the proceeds of twenty-three million nine hundred thousand dollars ($23,900,000) Community College Bonds and notes shall be allocated and expended for particular projects to be determined as hereinafter provided. The proceeds of twenty-three million nine hundred thousand dollars ($23,900,000) Community College Bonds or notes shall not be issued and no proceeds of twenty-three million nine hundred thousand dollars ($23,900,000) Community College Bonds or notes shall be allocated for the purposes provided in this act, however, until the General Assembly authorizes the issuance of some or all of these Community College Bonds or notes and appropriates the proceeds of these bonds and notes for specific projects within these purposes by separate legislative action in addition to this act in 1994 or at any subsequent session.

It is the intent of the General Assembly to appropriate the proceeds of the bonds and notes in 1994 or at a subsequent session based on consideration of the recommendations of the Legislative Study Commission on Community College Capital Needs in its report to be submitted to the General Assembly by April 1994 as provided in Section 11 of this act. Actual appropriations by the General Assembly in 1994 or at a subsequent session may be made without regard to the expressed intentions set forth above.

Nothing in this act or as a result of the approval of the bonds at the election provided for in this act restricts the right of the General Assembly, in addition to the right to specify the projects and the allocations therefor, in 1994 or at a subsequent session to:

(1) Establish a procedure whereby projected allocations set forth in subsequent legislation may be increased or decreased to reflect the availability of other funds, including, without limitation, contingency funds, income earned on the investment of bond and notes proceeds, and the proceeds of grants.

(2) Establish a contingency account and provide for an allocation of bond proceeds thereto. The funds in the contingency account may be used to pay the cost of projects, the costs of issuance of bonds and notes, and increased project costs resulting from construction costs exceeding projections, inflationary factors, and changes in projects and allocations. The funds allocated to the contingency account shall be placed by the State Treasurer in a separate account in the Community College Bonds Fund and shall be disbursed in accordance with the procedures established for disbursements from the Community College Bonds Fund.

(3) Empower the Director of the Budget, when the Director determines it is in the best interest of the State and the Community College System to do so, and if the cost of a particular project is less than the projected allocation, to use the excess funds to increase the size of that project or increase the size of any other project authorized by the General Assembly.

III. Allocations to the costs of a capital improvement or undertaking in each case may include allocations to pay the costs set forth in Section 3(4)c., d., e., f., and g. of this act in connection with the issuance of bonds for that capital improvement or undertaking. The matching requirements of G.S. 115D-31(a)(1) apply to the proceeds of Community College Bonds and notes used to make grants to community colleges.

(c) Clean Water Bonds. The proceeds of Clean Water Bonds and notes, including premium thereon, if any, except the proceeds of bonds the issuance of which has been anticipated by bond anticipation notes or the proceeds of refunding bonds or notes, shall be placed by the State Treasurer in a special fund to be designated "Clean Water Bonds Fund", which may include such appropriate special accounts therein as may be determined by the State Treasurer, and shall be disbursed as provided in this act. Moneys in the Clean Water Bonds Fund shall be allocated and expended as provided in this act.

(d) State Parks Bonds. The proceeds of State Parks Bonds and notes, including premium thereon, if any, except the proceeds of bonds the issuance of which has been anticipated by bond anticipation notes or the proceeds of refunding bonds or notes, shall be placed by the State Treasurer in a special fund to be designated "State Parks Bonds Fund", which may include such appropriate special accounts therein as may be determined by the State Treasurer, and shall be disbursed as provided in this act. Moneys in the State Parks Bonds Fund shall be used for the purposes set forth in this act, and the particular projects within such purposes to be financed in whole or in part from the proceeds shall be determined as hereinafter provided.

No State Parks Bonds or notes shall be issued and no proceeds of State Parks Bonds and notes shall be allocated for the purposes provided in this act, however, until the General Assembly authorizes issuance of some or all of State Parks Bonds and notes and appropriates the proceeds of the bonds and notes for specific projects within these purposes by separate legislative action in addition to this act in 1993 or at any subsequent session. The General Assembly shall appropriate no more than thirty percent (30%) of the proceeds of the bonds and notes for land acquisition.

It is the intent of the General Assembly to appropriate the proceeds of the bonds and notes in 1994 or at a subsequent session based on the recommendations of the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources in its State parks capital improvement and land acquisition plan to be submitted to the General Assembly by May 1994 as provided in Section 11 of this act. Actual appropriations by the General Assembly in 1993 or at a subsequent session may be made without regard to the expressed intentions set forth above.

Nothing in this act or as a result of the approval of the bonds at the election provided for in this act restricts the right of the General Assembly in 1993 or at a subsequent session to:

(1) Establish a procedure whereby projected allocations set forth in subsequent legislation may be increased or decreased to reflect the availability of other funds, including, without limitation, contingency funds, income earned on the investment of bonds and notes proceeds, and the proceeds of grants.

(2) Establish a contingency account and provide for an allocation of bond proceeds thereto. The funds in the contingency account may be used to pay the cost of projects, the costs of issuance of bonds and notes, and increased project costs resulting from construction costs exceeding projections, inflationary factors, and changes in projects and allocations. The funds allocated to the contingency account shall be placed by the State Treasurer in a separate account in the State Parks Bonds Fund and shall be disbursed in accordance with the procedures established for disbursements from the State Parks Bonds Fund.

(3) Empower the Director of the Budget, when the Director determines it is in the best interest of the State and the State Parks System to do so, and if the cost of a particular project is less than the projected allocation, to use the excess funds to increase the size of that project or increase the size of any other project itemized by the General Assembly, or to increase the amount allocated to a particular project within the aggregate amount of funds available under this section; the Director of the Budget having the right to consult with the Advisory Budget Commission and the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations.

(4) Provide that to the extent that funds are not required to be expended for the specific projects identified by the General Assembly, allocations may be used for capital outlay projects at any State park as replacement projects, but no such funds may be used for operating expenditures.

Allocations to the costs of a capital improvement or undertaking in each case may include allocations to pay the costs set forth in Section 3(4)c., d., e., f., and g. of this act in connection with the issuance of bonds for that capital improvement or undertaking.

Sec. 7. Election. The questions of the issuance of the bonds authorized by this act shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the State at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November 1993. Any other primary, election, or referendum validly called or scheduled by law at the time the election on the bond questions provided for in this section is held, may be held as called or scheduled. Notice of the election on the bond questions shall be given by publication twice in a newspaper or newspapers having general circulation in each county in the State, and the election and the registration of voters therefor shall be held under and in accordance with the general laws of the State. Absentee ballots shall be authorized in the election.

The State Board of Elections shall reimburse the counties of the State for all necessary expenses incurred in holding the election that are in addition to those that would have otherwise been incurred, the same to be paid out of the Contingency and Emergency Fund or other funds available to the State Board of Elections.

Voting machines, ballots, or both may be used in accordance with rules prescribed by the State Board of Elections. The bond questions to be used in the voting machines and ballots shall be in substantially the following forms:

(b) Signatures; Form and Denomination; Registration. Bonds or notes may be issued as certificated or uncertificated obligations. If issued as certificated obligations, bonds or notes shall be signed on behalf of the State by the Governor or shall bear his facsimile signature, shall be signed by the State Treasurer or shall bear his facsimile signature, and shall bear the Great Seal of the State or a facsimile thereof shall be impressed or imprinted thereon. If bonds or notes bear the facsimile signatures of the Governor and the State Treasurer, the bonds or notes shall also bear a manual signature which may be that of a bond registrar, trustee, paying agent, or designated assistant of the State Treasurer. Should any officer whose signature or facsimile signature appears on bonds or notes cease to be such officer before the delivery of the bonds or notes, the signature or facsimile signature shall nevertheless have the same validity for all purposes as if the officer had remained in office until delivery and bonds or notes may bear the facsimile signatures of persons who at the actual time of the execution of the bonds or notes shall be the proper officers to sign any bond or note although at the date of the bond or note such persons may not have been such officers. The form and denomination of bonds or notes, including the provisions with respect to registration of the bonds or notes and any system for their registration, shall be as the State Treasurer may determine in conformity with this act; provided, however, that nothing in this act shall prohibit the State Treasurer from proceeding, with respect to the issuance and form of the bonds or notes, under the provisions of Chapter 159E of the General Statutes, the Registered Public Obligations Act, as well as under this act.

(c) Manner of Sale; Expenses. Subject to determination by the Council of State as to the manner in which bonds or notes shall be offered for sale, whether at public or private sale, whether within or without the United States of America and whether by publishing notices in certain newspapers and financial journals, mailing notices, inviting bids by correspondence, negotiating contracts of purchase or otherwise, the State Treasurer is authorized to sell bonds or notes at one time or from time to time at such rate or rates of interest, which may vary from time to time, and at such price or prices, including a price less than the face amount of the bonds or the notes, as the State Treasurer may determine. (d) Notes; Repayment.

(1) By and with the consent of the Council of State, the State Treasurer is hereby authorized to borrow money and to execute and issue notes of the State for the same, but only in the following circumstances and under the following conditions:

b. For the payment of interest on or any installment of principal of any bonds then outstanding, if there shall not be sufficient funds in the State treasury with which to pay the interest or installment of principal as they respectively become due;

c. For the renewal of any loan evidenced by notes herein authorized;

d. For the purposes authorized in this act; and
e. For refunding bonds or notes as herein authorized.

(e) Refunding Bonds and Notes. By and with the consent of the Council of State, the State Treasurer is authorized to issue and sell refunding bonds and notes pursuant to the provisions of the State Refunding Bond Act for the purpose of refunding bonds or notes issued pursuant to this act. (f) Tax Exemption. Bonds and notes shall be exempt from all State, county, and municipal taxation or assessment, direct or indirect, general or special, whether imposed for the purpose of general revenue or otherwise, excluding inheritance and gift taxes, income taxes on the gain from the transfer of bonds and notes, and franchise taxes. The interest on bonds and notes shall not be subject to taxation as to income.

(g) Investment Eligibility. Bonds and notes are hereby made securities in which all public officers, agencies, and public bodies of the State and its political subdivisions, all insurance companies, trust companies, investment companies, banks, savings banks, savings and loan associations, credit unions, pension or retirement funds, other financial institutions engaged in business in the State, executors, administrators, trustees, and other fiduciaries may properly and legally invest funds, including capital in their control or belonging to them. (h) Faith and Credit. The faith and credit and taxing power of the State are hereby pledged for the payment of the principal of and the interest on bonds and notes. In addition to the State's right to amend any provision of this act to the extent it does not impair any contractual right of a bond owner, the State expressly reserves the right to amend any provision of this act with respect to the making and repayment of loans, the disposition of any repayments of loans, and any intercept provisions relating to the failure of a local government unit to repay a loan, the bonds not being secured in any respect by loans, any repayments thereof, or any intercept provisions with respect thereto.

Sec. 9. Variable interest rates. In fixing the details of bonds and notes, the State Treasurer may provide that any of the bonds or notes may:

(1) Be made payable from time to time on demand or tender for purchase by the owner thereof provided a credit facility supports the bonds or notes, unless the State Treasurer specifically determines that a credit facility is not required upon a finding and determination by the State Treasurer that the absence of a credit facility will not materially or adversely affect the financial position of the State and the marketing of the bonds or notes at a reasonable interest cost to the State;

(2) Be additionally supported by a credit facility;

(3) Be made subject to redemption or a mandatory tender for purchase prior to maturity;

(4) Bear interest at a rate or rates that may vary for such period or periods of time, all as may be provided in the proceedings providing for the issuance of the bonds or notes, including, without limitation, such variations as may be permitted pursuant to a par formula; and

Sec. 10. Special provisions governing clean water loans. (a) Scope. The provisions of this section shall apply to loans being made from the proceeds of bonds authorized by this act for clean water projects, other than from funds deposited in the Clean Water Revolving Loan and Grant Fund.

(b) Clean Water Bonds Loan Fund. There is established in the Department of State Treasurer a fund to be known as the Clean Water Bonds Loan Fund, which may include any special or segregated accounts the State Treasurer considers appropriate. There shall be deposited in the Clean Water Bonds Loan Fund proceeds of the Clean Water Bonds and notes to be used to make loans, other than loans to be made through the Clean Water Revolving Loan and Grant Fund, to local government units for clean water projects as provided in this act. Funds in the various accounts may be invested from time to time by the State Treasurer in the same manner permitted for investments of funds belonging to the State or held in the State treasury. Any investment earnings shall be credited to the particular account from which the investment was made.

All moneys accruing to the credit of the Clean Water Bonds Loan Fund, other than funds set aside for administrative expenses, including expenses related to determining compliance with applicable requirements of the federal tax law and costs of issuance, shall be used to make loans for the purposes provided in this act. The State Treasurer shall be responsible for making and administering all loans pursuant to the provisions of this section.

(c) Application for Loans; Hearings.

(1) Eligibility/Initial Hearing.

a. Prior to filing an application for a loan, a local government unit shall hold a public hearing. A notice of the public hearing shall be published once at least 10 days before the date fixed for the hearing.

b. All applications for loans shall be filed with the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources. The form of the application shall be prescribed by the Department and shall require any information necessary to determine the eligibility for a loan under the provisions of this section. All applications approved by the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources shall be filed with the Local Government Commission. Each applicant shall furnish to the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources and the Local Government Commission information in addition or supplemental to the information contained in its application, upon request.

c. A local government unit shall not be eligible for a loan unless it demonstrates to the satisfaction of the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources and the Local Government Commission that:

1. The applicant is a local government unit;

2. The applicant has the financial capacity to pay the principal of and interest on its proposed loan as evidenced by the approval of the Local Government Commission;
3. The applicant has substantially complied or will substantially comply with all applicable laws, rules, regulations, and ordinances, whether federal, State, or local; and
4. The applicant has agreed by official resolution to adopt and place into effect a schedule of fees and charges or the application of other sources of revenue which will provide adequate funds for proper operation, maintenance, and administration of the project and repayment of all principal and interest on the loan.

(2) Assessment. The Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources may require any applicant to file with its application an assessment of the impact the project for which the funds are sought will have upon meeting the facility needs of the area within which the project is to be located.

(3) Hearing by the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources or the Local Government Commission. A public hearing may be held by the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources or the Local Government Commission at any time on any application. Public hearings may also be held by the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources in its discretion upon written request from any citizen or taxpayer who is a resident of the county or counties in which the project is to be located or a resident of the local government unit that proposes to borrow moneys under this act, if it appears that the public interest will be served by the hearing. The written request shall set forth each objection to the proposed project or other reason for requesting a hearing on the application and shall contain the name and address of the persons submitting it. The Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources may consider all written objections to the proposed project and other statements along with the application including any significant considerations on facility needs and shall determine if the public interest will be served by a hearing. The determination by the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources shall be conclusive and all written requests for a hearing shall be retained as a permanent part of the records pertaining to the application.

(4) Petition for Vote. A petition, demanding that the question of whether to enter into a loan agreement with the State under this act be submitted to voters, may be filed with the clerk of the local government unit applying for the loan within 15 days after the public hearing required by this section. The petition's sufficiency shall be determined and a referendum, if any, shall be conducted, according to the standards, procedures, and limitations set out in G.S. 159-60 through G.S. 159-62.

(d) Priorities.

(1) Determination. Determination of priorities to be assigned each eligible project shall be made semiannually by the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources during each fiscal year. Every eligible project shall be considered by the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources with every other project eligible during this same priority period.

(2) Priority Factors. All applications for loans under this act shall be assigned a priority by the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources. The Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources shall establish by rule the priority factors criteria.

(3) Assignment of Priority. A written statement relative to each priority assigned shall be prepared by the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources and shall be attached to the application. The priority assigned shall be conclusive.

(4) Failure to Qualify. If an application does not qualify for a loan as of the prior period in which the application was eligible for consideration by reason of the priority assigned, the application shall be considered during the next succeeding priority period upon request of the applicant. If the application again fails to qualify for a loan during the second priority period by reason of the priority assigned, the application shall receive no further consideration. An applicant may file a new application at any time and may amend any pending application to include additional data or information.

(5) Withdrawal of Commitment. Failure of an applicant within one year after the date of acceptance of the loan to arrange for necessary financing of the proposed project or award of the contract of the construction of the proposed project shall constitute sufficient cause for withdrawal of the commitment. Prior to withdrawal of a commitment, the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources shall give due consideration to any extenuating circumstances presented by the applicant as reasons for failure to arrange necessary financing or to award a contract, and the commitment may be extended for an additional period of time if, in the judgment of the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources, the extension is justified.

(e) Disbursement. To be eligible to receive the loans provided for in this section, a local government unit must arrange to borrow the amounts necessary pursuant to rules adopted by the Local Government Commission. No funds shall be disbursed until the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources gives a certificate of eligibility to the effect that the applicant meets all eligibility criteria and that all procedural requirements of this act have been met. The maximum principal amount of a loan shall be one hundred percent (100%) of the cost of any eligible project.

(f) Intercept. The governing body of a local government unit shall by resolution authorize to be included in its loan agreement a provision authorizing the State Treasurer, upon failure of the local government unit to make a scheduled repayment of the loan, to withhold from the local government unit any State funds that would otherwise be distributed to the local government unit in an amount sufficient to pay all sums then due and payable to the State as a repayment of the loan. In such event, notwithstanding any other provision of law, the State Treasurer is authorized to withhold and apply such funds to the repayment of the loan, except that such funds shall not be withheld if (i) before the execution of the loan agreement, such funds have been legally pledged to secure special obligation bonds or other obligations of the local government unit, or (ii) after the execution of the loan agreement, such funds are legally pledged to secure special obligation bonds or other obligations of the local government unit as authorized in this subsection. After the execution of a loan agreement, all or any portion of the State funds specified in the loan agreement to be so withheld may be pledged to secure special obligation bonds or other obligations of the local government unit only with the prior written consent of the State Treasurer.

The State Treasurer shall notify the Secretary of Revenue and the State Controller of the amount to be withheld from the local government unit, and the Secretary of Revenue and the State Controller shall transfer to the State Treasurer the amount so requested to be applied by the State Treasurer to the repayment of the loan.

(g) Inspection. Inspection of a project for which a loan has been made under this act may be performed by qualified personnel of the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources or may be performed by qualified engineers registered in this State approved by the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources. No person shall be approved to perform inspections who is an officer employed by the local government unit to which the loan was made or who is an owner, officer, employer, or agent of a contractor or subcontractor engaged in the construction of the project for which the loan was made. For the purpose of payment of inspection fees, inspection services shall be included in the term "cost" as used in this act.

(h) Rules. The State Treasurer, the Local Government Commission, and the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources may adopt, modify, and repeal rules necessary for the administration of their respective duties under this act. Uniform rules may be jointly adopted where feasible and desirable, and no rule, jointly adopted, may be modified or revoked except upon concurrence of all agencies involved.

In order to carry out the purposes of this act to secure the greatest possible benefits to the citizens of this State of the funds appropriated, the State Treasurer, the Local Government Commission, and the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources shall adopt rules and criteria, not inconsistent with provisions of this act, as are necessary and appropriate to conform to regulations for federal grants and loans for any of the purposes set forth in this act.

Whereas, the State of North Carolina, acting through the North Carolina Air Cargo Airport Authority, now known as the North Carolina Global TransPark Authority, has designated the Kinston Regional Jetport as the location of the cargo airport and the air transportation complex to be developed; and

Whereas, the Global TransPark Complex, an approximately four to six thousand acre site surrounding the existing jetport, will contain a modern airport large enough to handle the largest aircraft and will be dedicated to the rapid movement of freight and passengers by air with intermodal connecting links with rail, highway, and water transportation facilities; and

Whereas, the Global TransPark Complex will be surrounded by a large area, to be known as the North Carolina Global TransPark, which will include commercial and industrial sites providing attractive locations for businesses and industries of differing sizes and varying kinds; and

Whereas, the General Assembly anticipates that the North Carolina Global TransPark will stimulate economic growth and the creation of job opportunities in a wide area in Eastern North Carolina; and

Whereas, to promote the economic development of, and construction of infrastructure projects within, the North Carolina Global TransPark and the counties of North Carolina that will derive economic benefits from the Global TransPark, the General Assembly desires to authorize certain counties to form an economic development district, to be known as the Global TransPark Development Zone, and a body to govern the district, to be known as the Global TransPark Development Commission; and

Whereas, the General Assembly desires to authorize the Global TransPark Development Zone to levy a temporary five dollar ($5.00) motor vehicle registration tax on vehicles with a tax situs within the Zone for a period of no more than five years, to generate funds to be used by the Global TransPark Development Commission for economic development projects to retain or attract, and infrastructure construction projects to support businesses and industries that are located, or may be located, in the Zone; and

Whereas, the counties that form the Zone can most effectively meet their own needs in carrying out development and infrastructure projects related to the development of the North Carolina Global TransPark by cooperative efforts, coordinated planning, and concerted actions through the Global TransPark Development Zone; Now, therefore,

(14) To plan for and assist in the extension of natural gas within the Zone.

(15) To assist in the placement of an information highway within the Zone.

(16) To do all other things necessary or appropriate to carry out its purposes as provided in this Article.

"§ 158-38. Fiscal accountability.

The Zone is a public authority subject to the provisions of Chapter 159 of the General Statutes.

"§ 158-39. Funds.

The establishment and operation of the Zone are governmental functions and constitute a public purpose. The State of North Carolina and any unit of local government may appropriate or otherwise provide funds to support the establishment and operation of the Zone. The State of North Carolina and any unit of local government may also dedicate, sell, convey, donate, or lease any of their interests in property to the Zone. The Zone may apply for grants from the State of North Carolina, the United States, or any department, agency, or instrumentality of the State or the United States. Any department of State government may allocate to the Zone any funds the use of which is not restricted by law.

"§ 158-40. Tax exemption.

Property owned by the Zone is exempt from taxation. This tax exemption does not apply to the lease, or other arrangement that amounts to a leasehold interest, of Zone property to a private party, or to the income of the lessee, unless the property is leased solely for the purpose of the Zone, in which case the activities of the lessee are considered the activities of the Zone.

"§ 158-41. Withdrawal; termination.

(a) Withdrawal. -- A county participating in the Zone may, by resolution, withdraw from the Zone. A resolution withdrawing from the Zone may not become effective before the end of the fiscal year in which it is adopted. Upon adoption of a resolution withdrawing from the Zone, the board of commissioners of the county shall provide a copy of the resolution to the Secretary of State, the Commission, the Authority, and every other county participating in the Zone. Withdrawal does not entitle a county to early distribution of its beneficial interest in Zone assets, but a county that has withdrawn retains its right to any distributions that may be made to participating counties pursuant to subsection (b) of this section on the same basis as if it had not withdrawn. For all other purposes, a county that has withdrawn from the Zone no longer participates in the Zone.

(b) Termination. -- The Commission may dissolve the Zone and terminate its existence at any time. If the Zone is dissolved and terminated or is otherwise unable to expend the tax proceeds received pursuant to G.S. 158-42, the Commission shall liquidate the assets of the Zone to the extent possible and distribute all Zone assets to the counties of the Zone in proportion to the amount of tax collected in each county. The assets of the Zone that exceed the amount of tax collected by the counties and are attributable to an appropriation made to the Zone by the General Assembly shall revert to the General Fund and may not be distributed to the counties. A county may use funds distributed to it pursuant to this subsection only for economic development projects and infrastructure construction projects. In calculating the amount to be refunded to each county, the Zone shall first allocate amounts loaned and not yet repaid as follows:

(1) Amounts loaned for a project in a county will be allocated to that county to the extent of its beneficial ownership of the principal of the trust account created under G.S. 158-42 and the county will become the owner of the right to repayment of the amount loaned to the extent of its beneficial ownership of the principal of the trust account created under G.S. 158-42.

(2) Amounts not allocated pursuant to subdivision (1) shall be allocated among the remaining counties in proportion to the amount of tax collected in each county under G.S. 158-42, and the remaining counties shall become the owners of the right to repayment of the amounts loaned in proportion to the amount of tax collected in each county under G.S. 158-42.

Notes and other instruments representing the right to repayment shall, upon dissolution of the Zone, be held and collected by the State Treasurer, who shall disburse the collections to the counties as provided in this subsection.

The Commission shall distribute those assets that it is unable to liquidate among the Zone counties insofar as practical on an equitable basis, as determined by the Commission. Upon termination, the State of North Carolina shall succeed to any remaining rights, obligations, and liabilities of the Zone not assigned to the Zone counties.

"§ 158-42. Temporary Zone vehicle registration tax.

(a) Levy. -- The Commission may, by resolution, after not less than 10 days' public notice and a public hearing, levy an annual registration tax of five dollars ($5.00) on motor vehicles with a tax situs within the Zone. A tax levied under this section is in addition to any other motor vehicle license or registration tax.

The tax applies to vehicles required to pay a tax under G.S. 20-88 and G.S. 20-87(1), (2), (4), (5), (6), and (7). The tax situs of a motor vehicle for the purpose of this section is its ad valorem tax situs. If the vehicle is not subject to ad valorem tax, its tax situs for the purpose of this section is the ad valorem tax situs it would have if it were subject to ad valorem tax.

(b) Effective Date; Expiration. -- The effective date of a tax levied under this section shall be no earlier than July 1, 1994. The effective date of a tax levied under this section must be the first day of a calendar month set by the Commission in the resolution levying the tax, and shall be no earlier than the first day of the third calendar month after the adoption of the resolution.

The authority of the Zone to levy a tax under this section expires five years after the effective date of the first tax levied under this section. A tax levied under this section expires when the Zone's authority to levy the tax expires. The expiration of the tax does not affect the rights or liabilities of the Zone, a taxpayer, or another person arising under this section before the expiration of the tax; nor does it affect the right to any refund or credit of a tax that would otherwise have been available under this section before the expiration of the tax.

(c) Repeal of Tax. -- The Commission may, by resolution, repeal a tax levied under this section. The effective date of the repeal must be the first day of a calendar month set by the Commission in the resolution repealing the tax, and shall be no earlier than the first day of the third calendar month after the adoption of the resolution. Repeal of the tax does not affect the date the Zone's authority to levy the tax expires under subsection (b) of this section. Repeal of the tax does not affect the rights or liabilities of the Zone, a taxpayer, or another person arising under this section before the effective date of the repeal; nor does it affect the right to any refund or credit of a tax that would otherwise have been available under this section before the effective date of the repeal.

(d) Administration. -- The Division of Motor Vehicles of the Department of Transportation shall collect and administer a tax levied under this section. Immediately after adopting a resolution levying or repealing a tax under this section, the Commission shall deliver a certified copy of the resolution to the Division of Motor Vehicles. The tax is due at the same time and subject to the same restrictions as the tax levied in G.S. 20-87 and G.S. 20-88. The tax shall be prorated in accordance with G.S. 20-66 and G.S. 20-95, as applicable. The Commissioner of Motor Vehicles may adopt rules necessary to administer the tax.

(e) Distribution of Tax Proceeds. -- The Commissioner of Motor Vehicles shall credit the proceeds of the tax levied under this section to a special account and distribute the net proceeds on a quarterly basis to the Zone. Interest on the special account shall be credited quarterly to the Highway Fund to reimburse the Division of Motor Vehicles for the cost of collecting and administering the tax. The Commissioner of Motor Vehicles shall provide the Zone with an accounting of the percentage of proceeds collected in each county of the Zone in each quarter.

(f) Use of Tax Proceeds. -- The Zone may use the proceeds of the tax levied under this section only for economic development projects and infrastructure construction projects that are within the territorial jurisdiction of the Zone but not within the Global TransPark Complex. The Zone shall use the tax proceeds only for public purposes authorized by this Article.

The Zone shall place fifteen percent (15%) of the tax proceeds distributed to it under this section in a general funds account and the remaining eighty-five percent (85%) in an interest-bearing trust account. Each county shall be the beneficial owner of a share of the principal of the trust account in proportion to the amount of tax proceeds collected in that county.

The Zone may not disburse the principal of the trust account except pursuant to a contract that provides that, within a reasonable time not to exceed 20 years, the Zone will recover or be repaid the amount disbursed. The Zone may, in its discretion, set reasonable terms and conditions for the repayment of the principal disbursed, including provisions for securing the debt and the payment of interest."

Sec. 2. Section 1.2 of Chapter 749 of the 1991 Session Laws is repealed.

Sec. 3. This act is effective upon ratification. The creation of the Global TransPark Development Zone in accordance with G.S. 158-33, as enacted by this act, is valid only if the resolutions required by G.S. 158-33(a) are adopted after the effective date of this act.

In the General Assembly read three times and ratified this the 24th day of July, 1993.

A tax levied under this section is due and payable to the county finance officer in monthly installments on or before the fifteenth day of the month following the month in which the tax accrues. Every person, firm, corporation, or association liable for the tax shall, on or before the fifteenth day of each month, prepare and render a return on a form prescribed by the county. The return shall state the total gross receipts derived in the preceding month from rentals upon which the tax is levied.

A return filed with the county finance officer under this section is not a public record as defined by G.S. 132-1 and may not be disclosed except as required by law.

(d) Penalties.

A person, firm, corporation, or association who fails or refuses to file the return required by this section is subject to the civil and criminal penalties set by G.S. 105-236 for failure to pay or file a return for State sales and use taxes. The board of commissioners has the same authority to waive the penalties for a room occupancy tax that the Secretary of Revenue has to waive the penalties for State sales and use taxes.

(e) Use of Tax Revenue.

Lincoln County shall use at least two-thirds of the proceeds of the tax revenue to promote travel and tourism and shall use the remaining tax proceeds for tourism-related expenditures. The term "promote travel and tourism" means to advertise or market an area or activity, publish and distribute pamphlets and other materials, conduct market research, or engage in similar promotional activities that attract tourists or business travelers to the county; the term includes administrative expenses incurred in engaging in the listed activities. The term "tourism-related expenditures" means expenditures that are designed to increase the use of lodging facilities in the county or to attract tourists or business travelers to the county and expenditures by the county to administer and collect the tax; it includes expenditures for the construction or maintenance of a convention or meeting facility to be used primarily by individuals who are not residents of the county and for the construction or maintenance of a coliseum or visitors' center, but does not include other capital expenditures.

(f) Effective Date of Levy.

A tax levied under this section shall become effective on the date specified in the resolution levying the tax. That date must be the first day of a calendar month, however, and may not be earlier than the first day of the second month after the date the resolution is adopted.

(g) Repeal.

A tax levied under this section may be repealed by a resolution adopted by the Lincoln County Board of Commissioners. Repeal of a tax levied under this section shall become effective on the first day of a month and may not become effective until the end of the fiscal year in which the repeal resolution was adopted. Repeal of a tax levied under this section does not affect a liability for a tax that was attached before the effective date of the repeal, nor does it affect a right to a refund of a tax that accrued before the effective date of the repeal.

Sec. 2. Chapter 1001 of the 1991 Session Laws is amended by adding a new section to read:

"Sec. 3.1. Notwithstanding the provisions of G.S. 115C-40 and G.S. 115C-521, local boards of education are authorized to enter into contracts for the erection or repair of school buildings upon sites owned in fee simple by one or more counties in which the local school administrative units are located. This section applies only to Duplin County and to local boards of education for school administrative units in or for Duplin County."

Sec. 3. A town may adopt ordinances applicable in the town and the town's extraterritorial planning jurisdiction to require that developers make payment to the town in lieu of reserving or dedicating recreation areas, where the town's planning and development regulations would otherwise require provision of recreation areas equaling two acres or less. The amount of payment shall be determined through procedures to be established by ordinance and in a manner consistent with G.S. 160A-372. This section applies only to the Town of Chapel Hill.

Sec. 4. Section 1 of this act applies only to Lincoln County. Section 2 of this act applies only to Duplin County and to local boards of education for school administrative units in or for Duplin County. Section 3 of this act applies only to the Town of Chapel Hill.

Sec. 5. This act is effective upon ratification.

In the General Assembly read three times and ratified this the 24th day of July, 1993.

Sec. 2. Appropriation Procedures. The appropriations hereby made by the 1993 General Assembly for the purposes under the Bond Act shall be disbursed for the particular projects authorized by this act. Expenditure of funds shall not be made by any State department, institution, or agency, until an allotment has been approved by the Governor as Director of the Budget. Sec. 6. Administration. With respect to facilities authorized for the Department of Correction, the Office of State Construction of the Department of Administration may contract for and supervise all aspects of administration, technical assistance, design, construction, or demolition of prison facilities in order to implement the providing of prison facilities under the provisions of this act.

If the Secretary of Administration, after consultation with the Secretary of Correction, finds that the delivery of prison facilities must be expedited for good cause, the Office of State Construction of the Department of Administration may use alternative delivery systems and shall be exempt from the following statutes and rules implementing those statutes, to the extent necessary to expedite delivery: G.S. 143-135.26(1), 143-128, 143-129, 143-131, 143-132, 143-134, 143-135.26, 113A-1 through 113A-10, 113A-50 through 113A-66, 133-1.1(g), and 143-408.1.

The Office of State Construction of the Department of Administration shall have a verifiable ten percent (10%) goal for participation by minority and women-owned businesses. All contracts for the design, construction, or demolition of prison facilities shall include a penalty for failure to complete the work by a specified date.

The Office of State Construction of the Department of Administration shall consider alternative delivery systems that could expedite the delivery of prison facilities. Such delivery systems as design-build, using modular or conventional building systems, shall be considered. However, in order for such alternatives to be used, the Department of Correction must approve the proposed design for operational programming and cost of operations and maintenance.

The Office of State Construction of the Department of Administration shall involve the Department of Correction in all aspects of the projects to the extent that such involvement relates to the Department's program needs and to its responsibility for the care of the prison population.

Sec. 7. Changes. To the extent that funds are not required to be expended for the specific projects described in this act, appropriations authorized herein may be used to complete project elements which could not be funded with the appropriations made in Section 239 of Chapter 689 of the 1991 Session Laws. Funds may also be used to construct, reconstruct, or renovate prison industrial and forestry enterprises facilities, as mentioned in G.S. 148-2, at prison facilities statewide, as replacement projects, and to make necessary prison facility repairs and renovations but no such funds may be used for operating expenditures. Prior to taking any action under this section, the Governor may consult with the Advisory Budget Commission.

Sec. 8. Quarterly Reports. The Office of State Construction of the Department of Administration shall provide quarterly reports to the Chairs of the Appropriations Committee and the Base Budget Committee in the Senate, the Chairs of the Appropriations Committee in the House, the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations, and the Fiscal Research Division as to any changes in projects and allocations made under this act. The Department of Insurance and the Department of Correction shall report quarterly to the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations on their involvement in the prison construction program.

Sec. 9. Unexpended Funds. To the extent that funds remain unexpended, they shall be subject to further reallocation or reappropriation by the General Assembly for purposes permitted by the Bond Act.

Sec. 10. Sections 1 through 4 of Chapter 1036 of the 1991 Session Laws are repealed.

Sec. 11. (a) The State may require contractors awarded bids for construction of facilities funded by the remaining eighty-seven million five hundred thousand dollars ($87,500,000) of the two hundred million dollars ($200,000,000) in bond proceeds, authorized by Chapter 935 of the 1989 Session Laws and appropriated in this act, to use a work force that includes inmates provided to the contractors by the Department of Correction; the requirement may provide that such inmates may compose up to twenty percent (20%) of the contractor's work force. Sec. 12. If additional funds are needed beyond the six million six hundred thirty thousand eight hundred sixty-six dollars ($6,630,866) authorized and allocated from the one hundred twelve million five hundred thousand dollars ($112,500,000) in bond proceeds by Section 239 of Chapter 689 of the 1991 Session Laws, as amended by Section 41(a) of Chapter 1044 of the 1991 Session Laws, for projects at the North Carolina Correctional Institution for Women, those projects, with the exception of the demolition of dormitories A, B, and C, shall be completed with funds from the five million dollars ($5,000,000) authorized for use by the Department of Correction for repair and renovation in the Current Operations Appropriations Act of 1993. The projects include a 48-bed special housing facility, an operations center, and a gatehouse. In no case shall any funds allocated for these projects at the North Carolina Correctional Institution for Women be allocated or used for any other project.

Sec. 13. The General Assembly shall fund the construction of Eastern Processing Center at Vanceboro and the 192-bed, close custody addition to Marion Correctional Institution as top priority items during the 1994 Regular Session of the 1993 General Assembly.

SMALL SCHOOL FORMULA/HOLD HARMLESS PROVISION

Sec. 52. (a) The General Assembly finds that the data to enable the Department of Public Instruction to determine eligibility for small school system supplemental funding for the 1993-94 fiscal year was not available from the Department of Revenue until July 8, 1993; therefore, this determination was made well after the boards of county commissioners had acted on the boards of education budgets for the 1993-94 fiscal year. While considering the budgets for the Ashe and Jackson County School Administrative Units, the boards of county commissioners of those counties assumed that small school system supplemental funding would be available for the 1993-94 fiscal year. Therefore, for the 1993-94 fiscal year only, notwithstanding the provisions of Section 138.1 of Chapter 321 of the 1993 Session Laws, the State Board of Education shall allocate funds appropriated for small school system supplemental funding in this act to the Ashe and Jackson County School Administrative Units. Each of these county school administrative units shall receive for the 1993-94 fiscal year the same amount it received for the 1992-93 fiscal year.

(b) Section 138(j) of Chapter 321 of the 1993 Session Laws requires the Department of Revenue to provide to the Department of Public Instruction a final report prior to May 1 of each year of all data necessary to determine eligibility for small school system supplemental funding; therefore, (i) all boards of county commissioners will have this information when they consider the budgets for their county school administrative units, and (ii) the General Assembly does not intend to hold counties harmless in future fiscal years.

EXECUTIVE ORDER NUMBER 178
WAIVING CERTAIN PENALTIES PURSUANT TO CHAPTER 166A OF THE GENERAL STATUTES OF NORTH CAROLINA

WHEREAS, this year's sweet potato crops ("yams") are among the largest in recent years; and

WHEREAS, the recent heavy rainfall has caused an increase in the weight of the yams in the fields due to soil moisture and water saturation; and

WHEREAS, substantial portions of the crops may be lost if they are not removed from the fields soon; and

WHEREAS, there is a substantial likelihood that the farmers of the State will be unable to remove their yams from the fields before crop deterioration occurs (with the equipment now available to them for that purpose) if they are required to adhere to the weight restrictions presently imposed by N.C.G.S. 20-88, 20-96, and 20-118; and

WHEREAS, under the provisions of N.C.G.S. 166A-4(3) and 166A-6(c)(3), the Governor, with the concurrence of the Council of State, may waive the penalties for exceeding the weight limits imposed by said statutes in the event of an imminent threat of widespread damage from a natural or man-made accidental cause within the meaning of N.C.G.S. 166A-4(3) and 166A-6(c)(3); and

WHEREAS, with the concurrence of the Council of State, I have found that because (i) they must adhere to the weight restrictions of N.C.G.S. 20-88, 20-96 and 20-118, farmers may be unable to remove their yams from the fields soon enough, (ii) their inability to do so likely will result in damages to their crops causing them to suffer losses and, therefore, (iii) there is an imminent threat of widespread damage from a natural or man-made accidental cause within the meaning of N.C.G.S. 166A-4(3);

THEREFORE, pursuant to the authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of this State and with the concurrence of the Council of State, it is ORDERED:

Section 1. The Division of Motor Vehicles shall waive penalties arising under N.C.G.S. 20-88, 20-96, and 20-118 that otherwise would be assessed against vehicles transporting unprocessed yams to processing facilities on the highways of the State.

Section 2. Notwithstanding the waivers set forth above, penalties shall not be waived under the following conditions:

(1) When the vehicle weight exceeds the maximum gross vehicle weight criteria established by the manufacturer (GVWR) or 90,000 pounds gross vehicle weight, whichever is less.

(2) When tandem axle weights exceed 42,000 pounds and single axle weights exceed 22,000 pounds.

Section 3. The vehicles described above will be exempt from the vehicle licensing and tax requirements of N.C.G.S. 105, Subchapter 5, Article 36B.

6. Definitions.

"Computer accommodation" means the acquisition or modification of FIP resources to minimize the functional limitations of employees in order to promote productivity and to ensure access to work-related information resources.

"Information accessibility" means the application or configuration of FIP resources in a manner that accommodates the functional limitations of individuals with disabilities so as to promote productivity and provide access to work-related or public information resources.

"Handicapped individuals" or "individuals with disabilities" means qualified individuals with impairments, as cited in 29 CFR 1613.702(f), who can benefit from electronic office equipment accessibility.

"Special peripheral" is defined in Section 508 of Pub. L. 99-506 as "a special needs aid that provides access to electronic equipment that is otherwise inaccessible to a handicapped individual."

7. Acronyms.

COCA	Clearinghouse on Computer Accommodation
DSO	Designated Senior Official
FIP	Federal Information Processing

8. Public Law 99-506. In 1986, Congress reauthorized the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended (Pub. L. 99-506, 29 U.S.C. 794d). Section 508, as incorporated into the Act, mandates that guidelines be established to ensure that handicapped individuals may use electronic office equipment with or without special peripherals and that agencies comply with these guidelines in acquiring electronic equipment.

9. COCA. In 1985, GSA's Information Resources Management Service (IRMS) established an information resource center called COCA, to assist Federal agencies in providing information accessibility to individuals with disabilities.

a. Accessibility. Workstations for Federal employees with sensory, cognitive, or mobility impairments may be equipped with special peripherals or software that provide access to computer technology, primarily microcomputers. This accessibility is a necessary link that enables handicapped employees to function efficiently and effectively on the job.

b. Equivalent access. Disabled individuals and non-disabled individuals should be provided equivalent access to electronic office equipment. FIP resources, particularly microcomputers, provide enhancement features, such as text enlarging and speech input and output, allowing disabled individuals to accomplish tasks previously impossible for them. For example, the inherent flexibility of microcomputers permits their adaptation to meet the specific needs of disabled individuals through the use of braille printers, spoken screen review, and keyboard replacement devices.

c. Functional specifications. Attachment A presents specifications that are organized by functional requirement into three categories: input, output and documentation. These specifications reflect the major areas that need to be considerd during planning and acquisition.

d. Accessibility alternatives. Accessibility solutions range from third-party hardware and software add-ons, such as "layered" solutions, to hardware "built-ins" and operating system enhancements. Agencies should attempt to provide the same equipment to all of their employees, whether or not they are disabled. For that reason, "built-in" accessibility solutions are preferable to "layered" solutions. Layering involves adding layers of software between the end-user and the operating system or application software. While this often complex solution may have advantages, such as increased function and performance, it can also have serious disadvantages. Disadvantages include increased costs, greater difficulty in maintaining software updates at the operating system level, and increased costs to train employees to utilize dissimilar equipment at different sites within the agency. For these reasons, layering should be selected as an accessibility solution only after careful analysis of its merits relative to that of "built-in" solutions.

11. Agency responsibilities.

a. DSO. The agency DSO for Federal information processing resources is the individual primarily responsible for ensuring electronic office equipment accessibility for current or prospective employees with disabilities. This responsibility also includes providing access to Federal public information resources for individuals with disabilities. The DSO or an authorized representative should monitor progress toward achieving electronic equipment accessibility goals. The Federal Information Resources Management Review Program is one means of monitoring this progress.

b. FIRMR requirement. The FIRMR requires that agencies shall provide FIP resource accessibility to individuals with disabilities and that agencies consider the guidance contained in FIRMR bulletins concerning this subject. This action is essential to enable handicapped employees to perform as productive employees.

c. Coordinated effort required. Agency management and technical personnel need to work closely with contracting officials when contracting for new or additional FIP resources to ensure accessibility to FIP resources by individuals with disabilities. Acquisition, management and technical personnel should:

(1) Provide to contracting officials, for inclusion in the solicitation, an inventory and description of any accommodation hardware or software currently being used with the resources scheduled for replacement or modification.

(2) Specify the need for a plan from prospective offerors that ensures functionally equivalent or better access to and use of proposed replacement resources.

(3) Specify the need for technical assistance in resolving problems in providing computer accommodation resources.

(4) Specify the need for the Government to be permitted to install additional accommodation devices, peripherals, or software that may be acquired from a third party, without voiding the maintenance and warranty agreements of the contract, provided such devices or peripherals conform to the electrical specifications of the system and can be connected through standard expansion slots or peripheral ports.

(5) Develop functional specifications to meet the access needs of individuals with disabilities (see Attachment A).

d. Consult GSA handbook. Agency managers determining accommodation strategies for FIP resource accessibility should consult the GSA handbook "Managing End User Computing for Users with Disabilities" for guidance. This handbook is available from COCA.

12. COCA services. Upon request for assistance, COCA will:

a. Respond to requests for general information on frequently used hardware/software and workstation furnishings to accommodate individuals with disabilities.

b. Assist agencies with researching specific hardware, software and communications problems associated with an employee's computer accommodation requirements.

c. Provide on-going consultative/technical assistance to agencies during planning, acquisition, and installation of individual and agency wide office automation systems; and

d. Conduct workshops on computer accommodation procedures.

13. Cancellation. FIRMR Bulletins 42, 48, and 56 are canceled.

FUNCTIONAL SPECIFICATIONS

These specifications are organized by functional requirement into three categories: input, output and documentation. This organization reflects the major areas that need to be considered during planning and acquisition. The capabilities set forth in these specifications are currently available from industry in various degrees of functional adequacy, except for access to screen memory for translating bit-mapped graphic images.

GSA will update this attachment to keep pace with technological advances and to address other types of FIP resources.

1. Input alternatives. Access problems concerning the input interface to a microcomputer differ according to the type and severity of an employee's functional limitation. Some users with disabilities are capable of using a keyboard, if it can be modified slightly. Others require an alternative input strategy. The following is an overview of common input alternatives and other input functional requirements that should be considered:

a. Multiple simultaneous operation. Microcomputers have many commonly used functions that require simultaneous striking of multiple keys or buttons. Sequential activation control provides an alternative method of operation by enabling a user to depress keys or buttons one at a time to execute the same function.

b. Input redundancy. Some programs require a "mouse" or other fine motor control device for input. Some users with motor disabilities cannot operate these devices. An input redundancy feature permits the functions of these devices to be performed by the keyboard or other suitable alternative such as voice input.

c. Alternative input devices. The capability to connect an alternative input device can be made available to a user who is not able to use a modified standard keyboard. This feature supplements the keyboard and any other standard input system used. The alternative input capability consists of a port (serial, parallel, etc.) or connection capability allowing an accommodation aid to be connected to the system to augment or replace the keyboard. For example, an alternative input device, such as a switch, eye scan, or headtracking system, may be customized to provide the most effective method of input for a user while supporting transparent hardware emulation for standard input devices, such as the keyboard and the mouse.

(3) Specify the need for technical assistance in resolving problems in providing computer accommodation resources.

(4) Specify the need for the Government to be permitted to install additional accommodation devices, peripherals, or software that may be acquired from a third party, without voiding the maintenance and warranty agreements of the contract, provided such devices or peripherals conform to the electrical specifications of the system and can be connected through standard expansion slots or peripheral ports.

(5) Develop functional specifications to meet the access needs of individuals with disabilities (see Attachment A).

d. Consult GSA handbook. Agency managers determining accommodation strategies for FIP resource accessibility should consult the GSA handbook "Managing End User Computing for Users with Disabilities" for guidance. This handbook is available from COCA.

b. Input redundancy. Some programs require a "mouse" or other fine motor control device for input. Some users with motor disabilities cannot operate these devices. An input redundancy feature permits the functions of these devices to be performed by the keyboard or other suitable alternative such as voice input.

c. Alternative input devices. The capability to connect an alternative input device can be made available to a user who is not able to use a modified standard keyboard. This feature supplements the keyboard and any other standard input system used. The alternative input capability consists of a port (serial, parallel, etc.) or connection capability allowing an accommodation aid to be connected to the system to augment or replace the keyboard. For example, an alternative input device, such as a switch, eye scan, or headtracking system, may be customized to provide the most effective method of input for a user while supporting transparent hardware emulation for standard input devices, such as the keyboard and the mouse.

d. Key repeat. A typical microcomputer generates repetitions of a character if the key for that character remains depressed. This is a problem for users without sufficient motor control. A key repeat feature can give a user control over the repeat start time and rate by allowing the timing parameters to be extended or the repeat function to be turned off.

e. Toggle key status control. Microcomputer toggle keys provide visual indications of whether they are on or off. A toggle key status feature provides an alternative, non-visual means of showing the on or off status of a toggle key.

f. Keyboard orientation aids. To orient a visually impaired user to a particular keyboard, a set of tactile overlays should be available to identify the most important keys. The tactile overlays can be in the form of keycap replacements or transparent sticky tape with unique symbols to identify the various keys.

g. Keyguards. To assist a motor-disabled user, a keyguard should be available to stabilize movements and help ensure that the correct keys are depressed. A keyguard is a keyboard template with holes corresponding to the location of the keys.

2. Output alternatives. Some users with disabilities need an alternative output to be able to functionally use FIP resources. The following is an overview of common output alternatives, and other output functional requirements, that should be considered:

a. Auditory output. The auditory output capability on current microcomputers is sufficient to beep and play music. However, some users with disabilities may require a speech capability. A speech synthesizer is required to generate speech on today's computers. The capability to support a speech synthesizer should continue to be available in future generations of computers, or this capability may be internalized through an upgrade of the computer's internal speaker. The speech capability should include user-adjustable volume control and a headset jack.

b. Information redundancy. Currently, several programs activate a speaker on the microcomputer to provide information to the user. Some programs do not have the capability to present this information visually to the hearing-impaired user. An information redundancy feature presents a visual equivalent of the auditory information provided.

c. Monitor display. The requirement to enhance text size, reproduce text orally or in braille, or modify display characteristics is crucial for some users with visual disabilities. To ensure that this access continues, the following capabilities are required:

(1) Large print display. There should be a means for enlarging a portion of the screen for a low-vision user. This process uses a window or similar mechanism allowing magnification to be controlled by a user. A user can invoke the large-print display capability from the keyboard or control pad for use in conjunction with any work-related applications software. If applications software includes graphics, enlargement of graphic displays should also be available.

(2) Access to visually displayed information. The capability to access the screen is necessary to support the speech or braille output requirement of many blind users. Currently, blind users are able to select and review the spoken or braille equivalent of text from any portion of the screen while using standard applications software. Third-party vendors should have access to the screen contents in a manner that can be translated and directed to any internal speech chip, a speech synthesizer on a serial or parallel port, or a braille display device. Information presented pictorially also needs to be available in such a manner that, as software sophistication improves, it may eventually be translated using alternative display systems.

(3) Color presentation. When colors must be distinguished in order to understand information on the display, color-blind end users should be provided with a means of selecting the colors to be displayed.

3. Documentation. Access to documentation for computer technology in a usable format should be provided for Federal employees with disabilities. Braille, large print, or ASCII disk equivalents of standard manuals are options to be considered.

7. Definition.

"Information accessibility" means the application or configuration of FIP resources in a manner that accommodates the functional limitations of individuals with disabilities so as to promote productivity and provide access to work-related or public information resources.

8 Background. The Telecommunications Accessibility Enhancement Act of 1988 (Pub. L. 100-542, 102 Stat. 2721) charged the General Services Administration (GSA) with assuring that the Federal telecommunications system be fully accessible to hearing and speech impaired individuals. Included among the provisions of this law is the requirement that GSA prescribe regulations to help assure such accessibility. In consultation with COAT, GSA has developed these guidelines as well as related regulatory provisions in the FIRMR to comply with this statutory mandate. This bulletin will be revised periodically to keep pace with technological advancements and as dictated by agency compliance with FIRMR policies and procedures.

9 General.

a. Individuals with hearing and speech impairments should be provided access to Federal telecommunications services and facilities. Technological advances, such as the TDD, make this possible. A TDD is a machine that uses typed input and output, usually with a visual text display, to enable individuals with hearing or speech impairments to communicate over a telecommunications network.

b. Technological advances for non-disabled individuals may have an even greater long-term effect on improving telecommunications accessibility for those with hearing and speech impairments. Such advances include electronic mail; facsimile; teleconferencing; LAN-based video imaging; text-based information services and messaging; and remote, real-time transcription/translation capabilities. Many of these services are available to agencies through FTS2000, GSA's long-distance telecommunications service. GSA's TDD relay service will also improve the ability of those with hearing and speech impairments to access Federal agencies. The flexibility inherent in these new telecommunications capabilities makes it possible to accommodate the special requirements of speech and hearing impaired individuals.

10. GSA responsibilities and actions.

a. In accordance with Pub. L. 100-542, GSA is required to:

(1) Assume responsibility for the operation of the pilot Federal telecommunications relay system operated by the Department of the Treasury and the Architectural and Transportation Barriers Compliance Board (ATBCB). Attachment A contains information on this system.

(2) Assemble, publish, and maintain a directory of TDD and other devices used by Federal agencies and publish access numbers for TDD's and other devices in Federal telephone directories. Attachment B contains information on the Federal TDD Directory.

(3) In consultation with the ATBCB, adopt the design of a standard logo to indicate the presence of TDD equipment in Federal buildings.

(4) Jointly with the FCC, promote research to reduce the cost and improve the capabilities of equipment for providing telecommunications accessibility for those with hearing and speech impairments.

(5) Consider technological improvements in telecommunications accessibility devices when planning future alterations and modifications to the Federal telecommunications system.

b. GSA solicitations for local telecommunications services or equipment will include specifications that require vendors to provide services or equipment to ensure accessibility for hearing and speech impaired individuals.

c. GSA's COCA staff will assist Federal agencies in identifying strategies to accommodate the telecommunications needs of their employees with disabilities.

11 Agency responsibilities. Agencies are responsible for:

a. Assessing telecommunications accessibility for individuals with hearing and speech impairments and developing specifications for solicitations. Attachment C provides guidance on how to fulfill these responsibilities.

b. Publishing access numbers for TDD and TDD-related devices in agency telephone directories and providing such numbers to GSA for inclusion in the Federal TDD Directory in accordance with the procedures in Attachment B of this bulletin.

c. Displaying in their buildings or offices the standard logo specified by GSA for indicating the presence of TDD or TDD-related equipment. In accordance with the Federal Acquisition Regulation, Part 8, the mandatory source of supply for standard logo signs is UNICOR, Federal Prison Industries, Inc. (FPI). Prior approval from FPI is required before using any other source of supply. Purchase Orders should be submitted to: UNICOR, Federal Prison Industries, Inc. 320 First Street, NW., Washington, DC 20534. (202) 724-8239.

12. Cancellation. FIRMR Bulletin 63 is canceled.

FEDERAL INFORMATION RELAY SERVICE (FIRS)

1. Background. In 1986, the Federal TDD Relay Exchange Service was initiated as a pilot project of the ATBCB and the Department of the Treasury. Pub. L. 100-542 required that GSA assume responsibility for this pilot relay service. GSA began operation of its own relay system, called FIRS, on March 20, 1989. GSA has since expanded its relay system by adding additional operators and nationwide toll-free (800) service to allow individuals with hearing and speech impairments to communicate with and within the Federal Government.

2. Description of service. FIRS allows communication between hearing and non-hearing individuals through a GSA operator relaying messages between the two parties. The GSA operator uses a computer that is configured to accept incoming TDD calls to converse with hearing or speech impaired individuals and a telephone to converse with hearing individuals. At least one of the individuals whose message is being relayed must be conducting official business of the Federal Government. Hearing individuals may also originate calls over FIRS. The relay's operating hours are from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. EST, Monday through Friday, except on Federal holidays. The local number for the TDD service is (202) 708-9300 (v/tdd). The nationwide number is (800) 877-8339 (v/tdd).

3. Agency responsibilities. Users of FIRS must assume certain responsibilities in order to assure the most efficient operation of the system. Future revisions of this bulletin and a brochure on the use of FIRS will explain these responsibilties.

4. Information and assistance. Information and assistance regarding the FIRS or how agencies might establish their own TDD relay systems should be addressed to:

General Services Administration
Federal Information Relay Service
National Capital Region
7th and D Streets, SW
Washington, DC 20407

Telephone (202) 708-6100 or FTS 458-6100 (v/tdd).

FEDERAL TDD DIRECTORY

1. Purpose. The purpose of the Federal TDD directory is to provide a single source where access numbers can be found for all Federal agency TDD and TDD-related equipment.

2. Description. The directory will be published by GSA on a regular basis and will provide Federal agency TDD accessible numbers. It will also provide information on GSA's FIRS and other services provided for hearing and speech impaired individuals.

3. GSA Responsibilities. GSA will maintain and update the TDD directory. The directory will be made available electronically on a regular basis and periodically in paper form.

4. Agency Responsibilities. Agencies must:

a. Provide accurate and current TDD numbers to GSA to the address listed below on a regular basis for publishing in the Federal TDD directory. This may be facilitated by establishing an agency contact point for TDD number collection.

b. Publish TDD accessible numbers and other appropriate information in agency telephone directories.

5. Information and assistance. Information and assistance on issues dealing with the Federal TDD directory should be addressed to:

General Services Administration
Federal Information Relay Service
National Capital Region
7th and D Streets, SW
Washington, DC 20407

Telephone: (202) 708-6100 or FTS 458-6100 (v/tdd).

AGENCY TELECOMMUNICATIONS ACCESSIBILITY PLANNING

1. Assessing telecommunications accessibility. Agency managers should be aware of the many different solutions for providing telecommunications accessibility for individuals with speech or hearing impairments. Accommodation needs vary by individual, communication situation, and functional job requirements. Interviews should be conducted with individual employees to identify and accommodate the employee's needs relative to one-on-one communications, telephone usage, travel, meetings, and training. Surveys may also be useful to determine how best to accommodate those with hearing and speech impairments who may need to communicate with the agency. The whole range of telecommunications and computer-based capabilities should be explored as both technologies are playing an increasingly important role as accommodation solutions for individuals in a wide variety of telecommunication situations. Agencies must also follow the applicable policies and procedures of FIRMR paragraphs 201-18.002(c) and 201-20.103-7(c).

2. Accessibility solutions. After a requirements analysis encompassing the needs of speech and hearing impaired individuals has been conducted, agencies should incorporate functional performance specifications into solicitations or take other action to satisfy identified requirements. Following are accessibility solutions that agencies may consider in their planning. GSA local service telecommunications contracts will contain specifications regarding TDD and TDD-related equipment and may also be referred to for guidance in this area.

a. Public information services. Individuals with speech and hearing impairments must be able to access agency information services. In the current environment, this requirement can be met with a TDD accessible telephone line and related end-user equipment (TDD or a microcomputer configured to support TDD access) at each office that has been established to respond to public inquiries. If the TDD number is not a dedicated line, the incoming call sequencing system must be able to acknowledge a TDD call, send a wait message to the caller, and accept the call in sequence. In addition, as agencies develop proposals for improving information services to the public, agency plans should include the telecommunications requirements of persons with speech and hearing impairments. For example, if an automated information service with prerecorded voice messages is being considered, plans must be made for providing the same information in a text messaging mode that would support equivalent information access by TDD users. This design flexibility would provide for access by hearing impaired individuals and would also benefit hearing individuals who prefer to access information visually through microcomputers rather than voice messages on the telephone. The text mode (electronic bulletin board) should be accessible through a dedicated line unless a single-line configuration is available that can distinguish between a human voice or machine-based inquiry and respond appropriately with audio or text response.

b. Amplification.

(1) A hearing impaired employee will usually know whether telephone amplification is beneficial and what type is most useful. Many hearing aids have a telephone setting that can amplify sound, if an appropriate handset is used. Vendors can provide a handset with the appropriate magnetic field intensity to be compatible with this type of hearing aid setting. Battery powered, portable handset amplifiers are also available for calls made at other phones and on travel. The amplifier can slip over the handset of most telephones. Speech impaired individuals may benefit from telephone handsets that amplify the volume of their voice.

(2) Portable telephone adapters can increase the magnetic field intensity of telephones that do not otherwise emit sufficient magnetic leakage to be picked up by the telephone switch of the hearing aid.

(3) The Hearing Aid Compatibility Act of 1988 (Pub. L. 100-394) requires that, with certain exceptions, all telephones, whether manufactured for use in the United States, or imported, "provide internal means for effective use with hearing aids that are designed to be compatible with telephones which meet established technical standards for hearing aid compatibility."

c. Telecommunications devices for the deaf. For an employee who cannot use an amplified telephone, a TDD will be required to support work-related needs. A TDD permits a hearing or speech impaired person to communicate over a standard telephone with another TDD user or through a relay operator to reach a non-TDD user. A standard microcomputer can be configured to function as a TDD through the addition of special hardware and software that supports Baudot, the code used by most TDD's. Enhancing a microcomputer to serve a TDD function is becoming a viable option. A computer-based solution should reflect a user's requirements and allow call announcement and pick-up without exiting other microcomputer application programs. Although still in wide use, TDDs that support Baudot only are considered obsolete technology.

d. TDD relay service. An agency with a large number of hearing or speech impaired employees or clients may elect to establish a TDD relay system for the agency's own use. A TDD relay system is a service which utilizes hearing operators to transmit TDD messages from hearing impaired individuals to hearing individuals. The GSA FIRS staff can provide advice on how to establish such a system.

e. Signalling devices. The sounds in the individual's work area that should be translated into non-auditory signals must be determined. Signalling devices can be installed that provide visual signals and/or vibrations to supplement the auditory signals of different sounds in a room, such as a telephone ringing, equipment malfunctioning, or a computer beeping a warning message. For some individuals, tone ringer devices that convert the ring of telephones into a frequency range more easily heard are beneficial. Paging capabilities provide a flexible means for sending text messages to a hearing impaired individual.

f. Electronic mail. Electronic mail presents no barrier to communication by speech impaired or hearing impaired individuals because it is a visual process only. Electronic mail systems should include a feature that provides an auditory and visual signal to announce an incoming call and the option for interactive conversation mode or messaging mode if the receiving party isn't available.

g. Voice mail. Voice mail may be a useful option for a TDD user who is able to speak. Spoken messages could be sent independent of a relay operator. Repeated telephone calls to reach a party are eliminated because such a system typically continues to place the call until the message is received. A voice mail message would be relayed to the hearing impaired individual in a manner similar to the way telephone messages are usually handled.

h. Facsimile. Sending hard copy documents or handwritten notes through a facsimile machine also provides a valuable alternative to telephone messaging for some communications situations. Facsimile (commonly referred to as fax) is the electronic transmission of letters and pictures over regular telephone lines. Fax systems should provide line status information in a visual manner (either text display or status lights) for feedback to individuals not able to benefit from auditory status information due to hearing loss or a noisy environment. A microcomputer card option may be a viable alternative to a stand-alone fax machine for individuals that usually need to transmit data that has been generated on a computer. A combination fax machine/telephone may also be an alternative to a stand-alone fax machine.

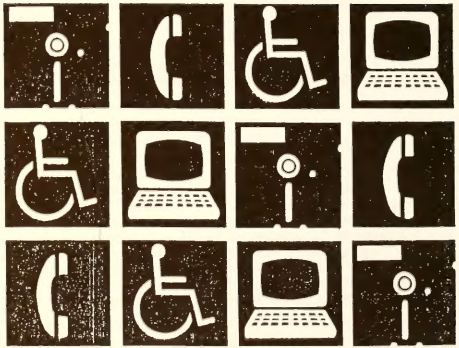
i. On-site and remote interpreter services. Professional sign language interpreters are available on a contractual basis to accommodate hearing impaired people who communicate using American Sign Language. Hearing impaired individuals and their supervisors should develop a plan to ensure that interpreter services are available when necessary. Currently, interpreters are required to be on-site when interpreting at meetings, conferences, and courses. The emergence of video-phones, teleconferencing and LAN-based video imaging capabilities may provide opportunities for more comprehensive and cost-effective remote interpreting services. This will be achieved when agencies are able to purchase commercially available teleconferencing equipment that supports the minimum scan rate necessary to transmit sign language.



j. Augmentative communication devices. Some individuals with speech impairments use augmentative communication devices. These devices are typically computer-based, portable, and include a speech output capability. Depending upon the individual's work-related requirements, a second communication device might be used with a recorded message to respond to incoming calls and alert the caller that a computer-based synthesized voice will be used during the conversation.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

In 1986, Congress mandated that agencies formally assume responsibility for ensuring that office equipment, whether purchased or leased, be accessible by individuals with disabilities. This document details the implementation plan for this statute (Section 508, P.L. 99-506) together with the initial management and procurement guidance to agencies regarding electronic equipment accessibility. This guidance also provides early information to industry regarding the direction in which the government is moving.

Significant productivity and human resource benefits accrue to government, industry, and individuals with disabilities when standard information technology can be readily enhanced to support all users. Current microcomputers can be adapted to accommodate the special access requirements of most users with disabilities. In addition, many emerging access technologies used by individuals with disabilities today e.g., voice input/output and enhanced keyboard and monitor capabilities, may be beneficial to all users as the technologies mature.

In 1984, the National Institute on Disability and Rehabilitation Research of the Department of Education (ED) established a Government-Industry Task Force to identify ways of designing computers to make them usable by a larger portion of the population. Also in 1984, the General Services Administration (GSA) established the Interagency Committee for Computer Support of Handicapped Employees and the Clearinghouse on Computer Accommodation to advance the management and use of information technology in order to promote the productivity and achievement of Federal employees with disabilities.

These joint ED and GSA guidelines reflect the first-hand experiences of these agencies during the past three years, as well as consultation with the electronics industry, other agencies, and the disabled community during guidelines development. The guidelines address management responsibilities and functional performance specifications for achieving accessibility. It is anticipated that these guidelines and all related activities will continue to evolve in the years ahead as information technology advances and as the government gains additional experience in applying technology to meet the requirements of individuals with disabilities.

Introduction

In 1986, Congress re-authorized the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended, (Public Law 99-506) adding Section 508 on electronic equipment accessibility " . . . to insure that handicapped individuals may use electronic office equipment with or without special peripherals". Congress has mandated that guidelines for electronic equipment accessibility be established and adopted and that agencies shall comply with these guidelines with respect to electronic equipment, whether purchased or leased.

The initial guidelines that follow address management responsibilities for electronic equipment accessibility and functional performance specifications. The guidelines interpret Congress' intent to mean that future government procurements and leasing of equipment shall assure electronic accessibility such that: the disabled end user shall have access to the same data bases, operating, and application programs; shall be equipped with adaptive programs and devices to support his or her disabilities; shall have computing capability not appreciably less than that of non-disabled end users in the same position and office; and shall be supported in manipulating data so as to attain end results equivalent to the non-disabled user. Electronic equipment which is part of a telecommunications system shall permit disabled end users to transmit and receive messages in a form amenable to their disabilities and having a content comparable to messages transmitted by non-disabled end users.

The above shall apply to all government agencies, and an agency's lack of accessible electronic office equipment shall not be a rationale for denying employment, promotion, or transfer.

To achieve the intent of Congress, the government shall establish accessibility policies and procedures for planning, management, procurement, and compliance which complement current information resources management activities, and management practices generally. This first version of the guidelines is an initial step. It is intended to set a tone and to provide early guidance to industry on the direction in which the government plans to move in the months and years ahead. As experience is gained, and as technology emerges, these guidelines will continue to evolve.

Providing electronic equipment accessibility for individuals with disabilities who have special needs is an idea whose time has come. Of all the electronic office equipment technologies, microcomputers may have the greatest current and long term potential for individuals with disabilities. While many individuals with disabilities will not need special equipment, others will. Due to the inherent flexibility of microcomputer technology, many users with vision or motor impairments, who cannot benefit from commonly used computer displays or keyboards, have alternatives readily available e.g., large print and braille displays, spoken input and output, and keyboard enhancement and replacement products. Fueled by this potential of microcomputer technology in the office, there is action in many areas. Executives and others working independently in central agencies, line agencies, in Congress, and in industry have taken important actions to begin to provide electronic equipment accessibility to individuals with disabilities. The Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended, is serving as a catalyst to provide a comprehensive and longer range view of the possibilities.

Background

In 1984, the National Institute on Disability and Rehabilitation Research (NIDRR), the Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services, Department of Education, in conjunction with the White House, took the initiative to begin a process of bringing computer manufacturers, developers, and consumers together to address the question of access and use of standard computers and computer software by persons who have disabilities.

An initial meeting was held on February 24, 1984, at the White House. The objective of the meeting was to familiarize companies with access problems and to solicit their support in a cooperative effort to address the problems. The meeting resulted in recognition of the problems, and a request by manufacturers for more information about disabilities, current barriers to the use of standard computers, and solution strategies that manufacturers should consider.

Subsequent to this meeting, briefings were held with manufacturers, and a White Paper was developed and distributed in preparation for a second meeting on October 24-25, 1985. This meeting consisted of a one and one-half day work session followed by a reporti session at the Rayburn Building (Capitol Hill. Computer firms represented included Apple, AT& Digital Equipment Corp.,Hewlett Packard, Honeywell, IBM, and Tandy Corporation.

As a result of this second meeting government/industry task force w formed. Now, two years later, the task force continues to work to identify ways that industry can improve the design of computers that they will be usable by a larg portion of the population.

Additional information about task force achievements and participa is available from NIDRR.

Authorities and Responsibilities

Section 508 of Public Law 99-506 places new responsibilities on the Department of Education and the General Services Administration. These new responsibilities along with related responsibilities from earlier legislation include:

Department of Education — "The Secretary, through the National Institute on Disability and Rehabilitation Research (NIDRR) and the Administrator of the General Services, in consultation with the electronics industry, shall develop and establish guidelines for electronic equipment accessibility designed to insure that handicapped individuals may use electronic office equipment with or without special peripherals." The deadline for establishing the initial guidelines is October 1, 1987. The guidelines are to be periodically revised as technologies advance or change.

General Services Administration — The Administrator of GSA, under the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, as amended, publishes and codifies uniform policies and procedures pertaining to information resources activities by Federal or executive agencies (as applicable) and by government contractors as directed by agencies. Under Section 508 of Public Law 99-506, The Administrator of GSA will assist the Secretary of Education in the development of the guidelines noted above. In addition, the Administrator is charged with adopting guidelines for electronic equipment accessibility after September 30, 1988.

Section 508 of P.L. 99-506 refers to "electronic equipment, whether purchased or leased," directs the ED and GSA to develop electronic accessibility guidelines, and then directs GSA to adopt the guidelines "for Federal procurement of electronic equipment." Procurements initiated after September 30, 1988, shall comply with the guidelines.

Purpose

This document has five purposes:

1. Identify the recent activities in this area;
2. Provide a broader framework for meeting the needs of individuals with disabilities now and in the future as the electronics industry advances;
3. Provide guidance to agency management in determining the needs of end users with disabilities and acquiring electronic equipment to satisfy these needs;
4. Detail the implementation plan for Public Law 99-506, Section 508, on Electronic Equipment Accessibility; and
5. Encourage industry to meet the needs of the disabled community through standard products, over the longer term.

Current Resources

In recent years, many individuals have initiated independent action to assist individuals with disabilities to capitalize on the potential of electronic office technology. The government currently has the following resources and interested parties should contact the programs directly.

In March 1984, the Administrator of GSA established the Interagency Committee for Computer Support of Handicapped Employees (ICCSHE). Twenty-three agencies are represented on the committee. They meet quarterly to exchange information on progress and problems in advancing Information Resources Management (IRM) activities to support employees with disabilities. Half of the member agencies have completed internal directives establishing general policy and procedures for providing computer support to their handicapped employees. The directives establishing this responsibility within their IRM offices were modeled after an internal order that established a similar responsibility within GSA and also created a governmentwide Clearinghouse on Computer Accommodation (COCA).

ICCSHE assists GSA by developing proposals addressing management and procurement areas where attention and guidance is suggested. Through four working groups, ICCSHE, sponsors annual governmentwide symposia, collaborates with federal laboratories to facilitate technology transfer, and participates in exchanges with counterpart organizations in other countries.

Individual agencies are implementing computer support activities and sharing their accommodation solutions with COCA, which serves as a central point of information exchange and networking among agencies. Examples of some ongoing agency activities follow.

The Department of Defense (DoD) has established Coordinators for Computer Support of Handicapped Employees in each major DoD component. The Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense, Force Management and Personnel is responsible for this initiative.

A Computer Support Committee has been formed at the Department of Health and Human Services and special funds for purchases of accommodation technology are being set up within the services. The Social Security Administration has established a Special Terminal and Adaptive Resources (STAR) Project as part of their Systems Modernization Plan. A task force is working to provide accommodation equipment that will allow disabled employees in all field offices to use the new automated claims system.

The Information Technology Center (ITC, FTS 233-5525) of the Veterans Administration has developed a program to enable their disabled employees to use personal computers. Through interagency agreements, consultation and training are also available to employees of other Federal agencies.

The Internal Revenue Service is developing a requirements contract for accommodation-related equipment, technical staff are available to assist with accommodation needs, and strategies are being reviewed to improve access to print information by visually impaired employees.

GSA's Clearinghouse on Computer Accommodation (COCA, FTS 523-1906) was established in January 1985. This technical resource center assists agencies as they establish support services and responds to individual accommodation requests governmentwide. COCA provides demonstrations of accommodation products and strategies at their center, 18th and F Streets, N.W., Washington, D.C. In addition, COCA gives presentations at agency conferences and seminars and provides formal training in computer accommodation through the GSA Training Center. COCA also maintains a data base of accommodation solutions received from agencies. Several agencies are implementing COCA's data base program to maintain their own inventory of agency equipment and expertise. COCA is currently preparing a manager's handbook, Managing End User Computing for Users with Disabilities, that will be published in November 1987.

On April 27, 1987, GSA published Bulletin 48 in the Federal Information Resources Management Regulations System (FIRMR). This outlines the responsibilities of agencies to provide for the special computer accommodation needs of employees with disabilities when replacing existing computer systems. In the future, GSA plans to consider the development of a schedule of contractors to assist agencies when they need help to integrate end users with disabilities into the information technology environment.

In summary, there is a great deal of activity which has preceded and led to these guidelines. We anticipate that these guidelines and all other activities will continue to evolve in the years ahead as technology improves and as the government gains further experience in adapting technology to the special needs of individuals with disabilities.

Guideline Proposals

These proposals address management responsibilities for electronic equipment accessibility and functional performance specifications for input, output, and documentation. Under the law, each agency must provide electronic equipment accessibility as detailed in the guideline proposals after they are adopted by GSA.

A. Definitions

1. Electronic Equipment Accessibility – is defined as the application/configuration of electronic equipment in a manner that accommodates the functional limitations of individuals with disabilities so as to promote productivity and provide access to work-related and/or public information resources.

2. Federal Information Resources Management Regulations (FIRMR) – are regulations promulgated by GSA that address the management, acquisition, and use of certain automatic data processing equipment, records and telecommunications resources by Federal and executive agencies.

3. Handicapped Individuals or Individuals with Disabilities – means individuals with impairment(s) that result in a functional limitation with regard to the use of electronic office equipment.

4. Special Peripheral – is defined in Section 508 as "a special needs aid that provides access to electronic equipment that is otherwise inaccessible to a handicapped individual."

B. General Policy

Handicapped persons and persons who are not handicapped shall have equivalent access to electronic office equipment. Provision of equivalent access shall include but shall not be limited to:

- Ensuring that end users with disabilities can access and use the same data bases and applications programs as other end users;

- Ensuring that end users with disabilities shall be supported in manipulating data and related information resources to attain equivalent end results as other end users;

- Ensuring that when electronic office equipment is part of a telecommunications system, that end users with disabilities can transmit and receive messages in a manner that supports their disability related needs and provides the capability to communicate with end users on their system.

C. Management Responsibilities

The single official for Information Resources Management, under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980, should assign an individual the responsibility to implement these guidelines. This individual would be responsible for keeping the agency in step with Federal policies as they evolve over time. This would include making agency IRM and procurement managers aware of their responsibilities, building accessibility requirements into procurements, and ensuring that technical support capabilities are available to introduce new equipment. The single official should ensure that appropriate progress is being made through triennial review program inspections.

To assist agencies to perform these responsibilities, GSA is developing a manager's handbook, Managing End User Computing for Users with Disabilities, which identifies the range of disabilities and current strategies to augment computer systems for accessibility. The greater need, however, is to encourage agencies to identify the requirements of their users with disabilities in order to achieve solutions during acquisition planning and procurement. The functional performance specifications below will help address this need.

D. Functional Performance Specifications

The functional performance specifications which follow are a combination of accessibility strategies which exist today, and additional strategies that would improve accessibility in the future. They are not an exhaustive list. The purpose of the specifications is to define an initial and basic level of accessibility, to be modified over time, to ensure that information technology, leased or purchased, is available to users with disabilities. Many of these specifications will prove useful to all end users.

Depending on the needs of the end users of each agency, all or part of these specifications will be included in agency procurement documents as requirements for demonstrable features. The government will welcome vendor creativity in responding to the functional requirements. In keeping with Federal procurement policy, each vendor will determine how to best satisfy these requirements. Vendor solutions may range from third-party hardware and software provided capabilities to hardware "built-ins" and operating system enhancements. Solutions residing in the vendors' hardware and software will have the greatest value to government. Layering, which is the inclusion of additional levels of software between the end-user and the operating system or other general purpose software, may provide the necessary functional solutions today, but in the future could adversely impact the ease of maintaining software currency at the operating system level, reduce the mobility of the employee(s) to utilize equipment at different sites within an agency, and result in additional expense. As a result, vendors proposing layered solutions should recognize the government trend in this area. Layered solutions will be evaluated on a case by case basis to determine their effect on the overall information processing needs of the agency.

In an era of increasing dependence on screen graphics and graphic images, our emerging requirement is to utilize established standard industry code from which screen information can be extracted, interpreted, and presented in speec or tactile form. This requirement recognizes the economic need to maintain the usefulness of all our trained human resources without permitting technology growth to exclude any class of users.

To accommodate future employees and provide systems support for current employees, solicitations should request pricing (perhaps on an hourly call-in availability basis throughout the life of the contract) for the services of vendor systems engineers who will be available to advise, assist, and resolve any communications or interfacing problems implicit in providing electronic office equipment access.

In the future, it is the government's expectation that emerging functiona and technical specifications may be provided in the standard product line. The specifications may also evolve, with experience to become Federal standards. Initially, industry should consider the specifications as indicators of current and future functional requirements for information technology equipment. It is recognized that some of the specifications are complex and/or require research and development. These draft specifications may be amended after the public comment period.

The specifications below are organized by functional requirement(s) associated with input, output, and documentation. This organization reflects the major areas that need to be addressed during agency acquisition planning and procurement. Managers who are determining accommodation strategies for an individual employee with a disability should consult the GSA manager's handbook, Managing End User Computing for Users with Disabilities or call COCA or ITC for assistance.

1. Input

Access problems concerning the input interface to a microcomputer differ by the type and severity of the functional limitation of the employee. Some users with disabilities are capable of using the keyboard if it can be modified slightly. Users with more severe disabilities require an alternate input strategy.

a. Modified Standard Keyboard Controls

The minimum access requirement for users of a modifiable, but standard keyboard, could be achieved by providing the following capabilities:

(1) Multiple Keystroke Control. Currently there are numerous common functions on the computer that require multiple, simultaneous keystrokes (e.g., to reboot CTRL + ALT + DEL must all be depressed at the same time). Multiple keystroke control would enable the user to execute a sequential option in which multiple keystrokes could be entered serially(e.g.to reboot a user could depress CTRL, then ALT, then DEL).

(2) Keyboard Repeat Rate. Currently the computer generates repetitions of a character if the key is held down. This is a problem for those users without sufficent motor control of their fingers to conform to the repeat tolerances of the keyboard. This feature would give the user control over the repeat rate. The user could extend the keyboard tolerances or turn off the repeat function completely.

(3) Input Redundancy. Currently numerous programs use a mouse as one of the input options. As the use of graphics increases so will dependence on the mouse as an input device. Some users with disabilities cannot use a mouse. This feature would provide an emulation of the mouse using the keyboard and/or other suitable alternative input devices, e.g., joy stick, trackball, voice input, and touchpad. In effect, any movement control executed through the mouse could also be executed from alternative devices.

(4) Toggle Keystroke Control. Currently toggle keys are employed which require visual feedback to know if a key is on or off. This feature would provide an alternative mode that does not require visual feedback to know the status of any toggle key.

b. Alternative Input Device

The capability to connect an alternative input device would be available to the user who is not ab to use a modified, but standard keyboard. This feature would supplement the keyboard and any other standard input system used. The alternative input capability would consist of a physical port (serial, parallel, game, etc.) or connection capability so that an accommodation aid could augmer the keyboard or replace it. The computer would regard this device as its keyboard and the user woul be able to input any valid keystrok combination (e.g., CTRL + ALT + DEL) available from the regular keyboard. This alternative input capability would also support the mouse emulation described above.

c. Keyboard Orientation Aids

There are several different keyboards available for current personal computers. To orient a visually impaired user to a particul keyboard, a set of tactile overlays should be available to identify the most important keys (e.g., ESC, ENTER, CTRL, ALT, and several key letters and numbers). The tactil overlays might be keycap replacements or transparent sticky tape with unique symbols to identify the various keys. To assist a motor disabled user, a keyguard should be available to ensure that the correct keys are located and depressed. A keyguard is a keyboard template with holes corresponding to the locations of the keys.

2. Output

Output in this section will address auditory output capability and monitor display.

a. Auditory Output Capability

The auditory output capability on current personal computers is sufficient to beep and play music. Some users with disabilities, however, may require speech capability. For speech to be generated on today's computers, a speech synthesizer is required. The capability to support a speech synthesizer must continue to be available in future generations of computers or this capability must be internalized through an upgrade of the computer's internal speaker. Regardless of the methodology chosen, the volume should be adjustable by the user and a headset jack should be available.

b. Information Redundancy

Currently, several programs use the speaker to beep warnings or errors to the user. Some programs do not have the capability to present the warning visually to the hearing impaired user. This feature would allow the user to have information redundancy by presenting a visual equivalent of the beep on the monitor. This might be accomplished by either a manual screen indicator (i.e.,the user would have to indicate that he has seen the warning indicator by entering a key sequence to remove the indicator from the screen) or an automatic screen indicator (i.e., the warning would be presented for a period of time and then removed automatically).

c. Monitor Display

The requirement to enhance text size, verbally reproduce text, or modify display characteristics is crucial for some users with disabilities. To ensure that this access continues the following capabilities are required:

(1) Large Print Display.
This feature increases the size of a portion of the screen for the low vision user. The process might use a window or similar mechanism that allows magnification to be controlled by the user. The user could invoke the large print display capability from the keyboard or control pad for use in conjunction with any work-related applications software. If applications software includes graphics, then enlargement of graphics should also be available.

(2) Access to Screen Memory for Text.
The capability to access screen memory is necessary to support the speech and/or tactile braille output requirement of many blind users. Currently, blind users are able to select and review the spoken or braille equivalent of text from any portion of the screen while using standard application software. The access to the contents of the screen must continue to provide third party vendors the ability to direct it to an internal speech chip, a speech synthesizer on a serial or parallel port, or a braille display device.

(3) Access to Screen Memory for Graphics.
Information that is presented graphically also needs to be accessed from screen memory in such a manner that as software sophistication improves, it may eventually be interpreted into spoken output.

(4) Cursor Presentation.
Where cursors or other indicators on the screen blink, the end user should be able to adjust the blink rate. This feature accommodates persons with seizure disorders who may be sensitive to certain frequencies of flashing light.

(5) Color Presentation.
Where colors must be distinguished in order to understand information on the display, color-blind end users should be able to select the colors displayed.

3. Documentation

The vendor will maintain a copy of all current user documentation on a computer, and will be responsive in supplying copies of this documentation in an ASCII format suitable for computer-based auditory review or brailling.

To develop and implement these guidelines several actions have been and are planned by GSA and NIDRR.

1. A consultant was employed to develop broad strategic concepts.

2. In May 1987, 23 companies were requested to provide input to assist in the development of the guidelines.

3. On June 29, 1987, a second letter and the first draft of the guidelines were sent to the same companies that received the initial letter. Comments were requested.

4. A two day conference was held on July 15-16, 1987, to discuss the concepts. Representatives from government, industry, and the disabled community participated in the conference.

5. GSA and NIDRR worked together to prepare this guidelines document.

6. An advisory committee was convened on August 25, 1987, to help improve this document. ICCSHE also serves in an ongoing advisory capacity.

7. On September 30, 1987, this document will be released to provide early guidance to agencies.

8. Beginning in October 1987, agencies will be invited to work with GSA and NIDRR to implement the guidelines on a pilot basis.

9. In mid 1988, GSA will release a version of the guidelines for comment by agencies, vendors, and individuals with disabilities.

10. In the remainder of fiscal year 1988, GSA will reconcile comments, and seek a consensus on the form of the FIRMR regulation and bulletin.

11. On September 30, 1988, GSA will publish the FIRMR regulation and bulletin.

12. GSA and NIDRR will work together over the years to complete the actions identified in the "Current Resources" section of this document.

13. GSA and NIDRR will work together after 1988, to update the FIRMR regulation and bulletin as the technology improves and as government and industry learn more about providing computer accessibility to employees with disabilities. ICCSHE will continue to serve in an ongoing advisory capacity.

14. A forum will be scheduled for December 1, 1989, with federal managers, vendors, and disabled employees to review the first year's experiences.

15. The advisory committee will be reconvened on April 1, 1990, to assess the September 30, 1988, issuances relative to current technology.

EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 8

STATE GOVERNMENT RECYCLING, REDUCTION OF SOLID WASTE, AND PURCHASE OF PRODUCTS WITH RECYCLED CONTENT

WHEREAS, 83% of the 9.5 million tons of solid waste generated annually in North Carolina is disposed of in landfills; and

WHEREAS, the State of North Carolina has taken significant measures to promote alternatives to landfilling and incineration by establishing solid waste reduction goals of 25% by 1993 and 40% by the year 2001; and

WHEREAS, source reduction and recycling are key elements in a comprehensive approach to reducing North Carolina's dependency on landfills and incineration for the disposal of solid waste; and

WHEREAS, recovered materials are not truly recycled until they are brought back into productive use in manufacturing and consumption; and

WHEREAS, the purchase of recycled products is necessary to ensure markets for recyclable materials, and state government constitutes a large consumer of products that are available with recycled material content; and

WHEREAS, the purchase of recycled products helps conserve natural resources and reduce energy consumption;

NOW, THEREFORE, by the authority vested in me as Governor by the Constitution and laws of North Carolina, it is ORDERED:

Section 1. PURPOSE

That all state agencies shall maximize their efforts to: (1) reduce the amount of solid waste they generate; (2) recycle material recoverable from solid waste originating at their facilities; and (3) purchase and use products made wholly or in part from recycled materials.

Section 2. RESPONSIBILITIES OF STATE AGENCIES

(a) Applicability

For the purposes of this Executive Order, "state agencies" shall include state government departments and the University of North Carolina.

(b) Responsibilities

(1) Each state agency shall be responsible for implementing programs to reduce and recycle solid waste generated by its operations and to purchase and use products having recycled content. Such programs shall be consistent with, and at least as comprehensive as described in, this Order. Each agency shall designate one or more individuals to coordinate and oversee its recycling, waste reduction, and recycled products purchasing programs, and to serve as a liaison with the Office of Waste Reduction of the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources.

(2) The Office of Waste Reduction shall provide technical assistance, education and training to state agencies on these matters, and shall serve as a central point of information and coordination for all state agency recycling and waste reduction efforts.

(3) The Divisions of Auxiliary Services and Facility Management of the Department of Administration shall facilitate state agencies' recycling efforts as part of their regular functions, which include but are not limited to overseeing contracts for or providing waste hauling and housekeeping services, and operating the State Surplus Property Agency.

(4) As provided in this Order, the Division of Purchase and Contract of the Department of Administration shall aggressively explore opportunities for purchasing products having recycled content in place of those not having recycled content, and shall actively promote the purchase of recycled products by state agencies and others eligible to purchase items from state contracts.

Section 3. SOURCE REDUCTION OF WASTE

(a) General requirements

To encourage reduction of waste at its source, all state agencies shall review their operations to determine where solid waste can be reduced at its sources of generation. Specific measures state agencies shall employ to reduce waste at the source include but are not limited to those identified in this Section.

(b) Printing and photocopying

State agencies shall avoid unnecessary printing or photocopying of printed materials, and shall require two-sided copying on all documents when feasible and practicable. All new photocopy machines purchased shall have duplexing capabilities if their capacity is rated at sixty thousand (60,000) copies or more per month.

(c) Durability, necessity, packaging, and recyclability

State agencies shall discourage the use of disposable products where reusable products are available and economically viable for use. Further, state agencies shall assess their waste generation with regard to purchasing decisions and make every attempt to purchase items only when needed and in amounts that are not excessive. When purchases are necessary, state agencies shall, to the extent feasible and practicable, acquire durable items or items that are readily recyclable when discarded, and items having minimal packaging.

Section 4. COLLECTION OF RECYCLABLE MATERIALS

(a) Collection programs for recyclable materials

(1) As set forth in G.S.130A-309.14, all state agencies shall ensure that employees have access to containers for recycling (at a minimum) aluminum cans, high-grade office paper, and corrugated cardboard. All state employees are required to separate identified recyclable materials generated in the course of agency operations and place them in the appropriate recycling containers. The provisions of this section shall not apply in those situations where the agency head makes a written determination that their implementation is not feasible.

(2) State agencies that routinely host the general public, such as highway rest areas, state parks and recreation areas, employment security offices, state historic sites, etc., shall implement programs for the collection and recycling of appropriate materials discarded by the public at all such locations (e.g., aluminum, glass, and plastic beverage containers) when feasible and practicable. State agencies shall work closely with the appropriate local government agencies when developing and implementing these recycling programs.

(b) Education of agency employees

It shall be the duty of each state agency to educate its employees about agency recycling/waste reduction goals and procedures and to ensure participation. The Office of Waste Reduction shall assist agencies to develop and implement educational programs. Each agency shall establish a network of assistant coordinators to work with the agency coordinator in carrying out this responsibility. The assistant coordinators shall disseminate information about recycling and waste reduction policies and programs and monitor participation in programs and report any problems, suggestions, or other feedback to the agency's designated coordinator.

Section 5. PURCHASE AND USE OF PRODUCTS HAVING RECYCLED CONTENT

To help develop markets for recyclable materials, to support local government recycling efforts mandated by G.S. 130A-309.09B, and to set an example for local government and the private sector, all state agencies shall purchase and use products made wholly or in part with recycled materials whenever feasible and practicable.

(a) Purchasing

(1) In cooperation with the Office of Waste Reduction, the Division of Purchase and Contract shall make every effort to identify products made from recycled materials that meet appropriate standards for use by state agencies.

(2) Product specifications shall be written to encourage vendors to offer products having recycled content. When products having recycled content are offered that are comparable in quality, availability, and price to products not having recycled content, term contracts shall carry only the recycled products.

(3) Term contracts shall be written in a format that prominently identifies products having recycled content, and these products shall be listed in conjunction with any comparable products that do not have recycled content, to enable agencies to readily identify the availability of these products. The Division of Purchase and Contract shall prepare a listing of all recycled products available on state contracts on a semi-annual basis, and make it available to all potential purchasers to increase awareness of opportunities to purchase recycled products.

(b) Recycled Paper

(1) State agencies are directed to purchase and use recycled paper for all letterhead stationery, reports, memoranda, and other documents when feasible and practicable. All new photocopiers purchased shall have the ability to use xerographic paper having at least 50% recycled content.

(2) State agencies shall attempt to meet the following goals for the percent of the total dollar value of all paper and paper products purchased having recycled content:

Fiscal Year 1993-94: at least 25%;

Fiscal Year 1994-95: at least 35%;

Fiscal Year 1995-96: at least 45%;

Fiscal Year 1996-97: at least 55%;

Fiscal Year 1997-98: at least 65%.

(c) Guidelines

The Division of Purchase and Contract and the Office of Waste Reduction shall develop guidelines for minimum content standards for recycled products purchased by state agencies.

(d) Departmental Review

State agencies that have delegated purchasing authority shall review their existing specifications to ensure that they do not contain restrictive language or other barriers to purchasing recycled products, unless such specifications are necessary to protect public health, safety, or welfare.

Section 6. REPORTING

(a) State Agency Annual Reports

On at least an annual basis, beginning October 1, 1994, each state agency shall report to the Office of Waste Reduction for the previous fiscal year the following information, at a minimum: activities or programs implemented to reduce the amount of waste generated by the agency; amounts and types of recycled products purchased; and amounts and types of materials collected for recycling by the agency.

(b) Annual Progress Report to Governor

The Office of Waste Reduction, in conjunction with the Department of Administration, shall provide guidance to agencies for preparing their annual reports. The Office shall compile the agency reports and provide an annual report to the Governor on progress by state government agencies in source reduction of waste, recycled products procurement, and collection of recyclable materials.

(c) Tracking Recycled Products Procurement

The Division of Purchase and Contract shall review its procurement tracking system and determine any changes needed to facilitate tracking of recycled products purchased by state agencies and others.

Section 7. EFFECT OF OTHER EXECUTIVE ORDERS

Executive Order 172 is hereby rescinded. All other Executive Orders or portions of Executive Orders inconsistent herewith are hereby rescinded.
